EXPECT EARLY NAVAL CONFAB WITH BRITAIN

Britten's Suggestion Leads Washington to Speculate About Action

CONGRESS IS WITH CAL

Naval Committee Chief Shows That Government Wants Agreement

Washington — Although the suggestion made by Representative Britten of Illinois, next chairman of the naval affairs committee of the house, is somewhat unprecedented in that he requests a meeting with a naval committee from the British parliament, the tendency is to view the incident as foreshadowing an Anglo-American naval pact.

Ordinarily the channel of communication from one government to another, or to the head of one government from a member of the legislative body of the other is through the department charged with the conduct of foreign affairs. Last year, however, there was a personal correspondence between Senator Borah, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, and President Calles of Mexico. Mr. Britten, however, acquainted the executive branch of the government with his purpose and apparently no objection was offered though there is no reason to believe the department either indorses or disapproves the move.

As vice-chairman of the inter-parliamentary union, an informal association of members of national legislatures and parliaments, Mr. Britten felt he had the right to bring about a public discussion of a matter vital to the peoples of both countries and the world in general.

NO FORMAL CONFERENCE
Mr. Britten's idea is not a formal conference because governments can only act through their ambassadors or special envoys but the exchange of views, he believes, would be helpful in focusing attention on the difficulties and perhaps working out a tentative solution.

After President Coolidge's clear-cut speech on naval armament on Armistice day, European opinion has been critical of American tendencies in naval building, forgetting of course that Mr. Coolidge was more anxious to emphasize the willingness of the United States to scrap new

LIVESTOCK TEAMS BUSY AT CHICAGO

Farm Boys and Girls from 19 States Take Part in International Show

Chicago — (AP) — Youth raised the curtain on the annual International Livestock exposition Friday with the non-collegiate judging contest for juniors serving as the prologue to the official opening of the exposition Saturday.

Farm boys and girls from 19 states took part in the junior livestock judging event, although this year is the first that girls have matched their judgement with the boys in these contests.

The junior judging teams consist of three members each, having been selected as the best in the state from which they come. Both Minnesota and West Virginia have girls on their teams. Olga Kolsrud representing the Gopher state with Anna Belle McLaughlin and Annie Handley on the West Virginia team.

The boys and girls spent the morning inspecting the livestock. In the afternoon they go before the contest judges and give their reasons for their grading of the livestock. The judges then tabulate the scores and pick the winners.

BRITISH FREIGHTER IS SINKING—AID AT HAND

Vancouver, B. C. — (AP) — Fears regarding the safety of the crew of the British freighter, Chief Maquilla, in distress 2,000 miles west of here in the Pacific ocean, were removed Friday when the Canadian-American Shipping company, owners of the craft, were advised that the Japanese freighter Montreal Mary was alongside and the British freighter Atlantic City and the Japanese steamer Yogen Mary were standing by.

With eight British officers and a crew of 32 Chinese, the Chief Maquilla, a 9,500 ton craft, left British Columbia ports Nov. 17 for Shanghai. She carried no passengers. Local agents of the Canadian-American shipping company, said she probably got into trouble when her cargo shifted.

Naval Cut Is Taken Up In Britain

Baldwin Giving Consideration to Promotion of Agreement, He Says

BULLETIN

London — (AP) — It was learned authoritatively Friday that Premier Baldwin has despatched a friendly reply to the proposal made by Representative Britten for an Anglo-American naval parliamentary conference on naval affairs. The premier's reply was stated to have been inspired by the same spirit which animated the invitation. The reply has been sent to Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador at Washington, who is communicating with the state department in the first instance.

London — (AP) — Prime Minister Baldwin and his government have under consideration what steps can be taken to promote agreement on further limitation of naval armaments.

Mr. Baldwin was asked in the house of commons by Sir Frederick Halliwell, as preliminary to any further discussion on the naval disarmament question by the league of nations, whether the government would consider inviting the French and American governments to participate in a conference with Great Britain insofar as the problem concerns the three countries.

In reply the premier said that his government was considering the steps that could usefully be taken for further naval limitations he added:

"I doubt whether the specific expedition proposed by my honorable and gallant friend would be likely to attain the object which he evidently has in view."

SUPPORT FOR BRITAIN

The proposal of Representative Britten that the naval affairs committee of the United States House of Representatives and a delegation from the house of commons meet to discuss naval limitation was supported editorially Friday by the Liberal Daily News. The paper remarked that the congressmen might have broken a statutory law of the United States in that he did not act through diplomatic channels and said:

"I should say that he has publicly administered to two governments bursting with etiquette a severe dose of common sense. In intelligent persons, anxious that Anglo-American relations shall make a fresh start toward organized good-will, will not care a rag of buttons whether Britten has broken the law or acted outside the rules of international etiquette. The important thing is that he brought to a focus Lord Lee's recent proposal on similar lines and Premier Baldwin's regret at the infrequency of personal contacts between official representatives of the two nations."

Beloit Explorer Is Back From Expedition To East

New York — (AP) — Roy Chapman Andrews of Beloit, head of the Central Asiatic expedition of the American Museum of Natural History, returned on the liner Leviathan Thursday night from a stay of two years in the Orient.

Much of the time was spent in excavating in the Gobi desert, where he said he and his party on 87 discovered what he believed was the "biggest mammal that has ever been recorded."

"I should say that from the shoulders down it would measure 15 feet," he said; "that its body would be 25 feet long and that it had a neck 12 feet long. It is a new beast and we have not yet given it a name."

Mr. Andrews explained that while the bones found were not from one animal enough had been located to reconstruct the skeleton of almost a complete beast.

FARM ISSUES CHIEF STUDY, REPORT SHOWS

President-Elect Submits Final Report as Secretary of Commerce

Washington — (AP) — Herbert Hoover's last official pronouncement as a servant of the government before his election as president was made public Thursday in the form of the annual report of the commerce department for the fiscal year 1928, which closed last June 30.

The document's key-note stressed "the remarkable continuity of the prosperity of the United States during recent years and its prevailing upward trend." In the forward, usually the secretary's own production, the steadiness of prices, the improvements in transportation, and the phenomena of finance were treated, while agriculture was given a special study.

"Viewing the agricultural situation as a whole, no very marked difference appears between conditions in the fiscal year 1927-28 and the preceding fiscal year," Mr. Hoover's preface said. "The crops harvested in the autumn of 1927 were in the aggregate of approximately the same magnitude as those of 1926 and larger than in any previous year except 1915 and 1920."

FARM PRODUCTION LAGS

"It is true that the increase in agricultural production both over a long period of time and during recent years has been decidedly less rapid than that in the production of manufactured and mineral products. The demand for farm products, which are for the most part necessities of life, tends to increase little if any more than population. On the other hand, there is practically no limit to the demand for manufactured commodities, many of which are in the nature of semi-luxuries or luxuries. Even if the need for one type is fully met, new and more highly elaborated articles are constantly coming into use with the advancing standards of living and of the equipment for production."

Turning to another field, the report remarked that "during the past seven or eight years, the amount of

11 BORDER PATROLMEN HELD FOR TAKING BRIBES

Detroit — (AP) — Eleven customs border patrol inspectors were arrested Friday by special customs agents on charges involving conspiracy to assist in smuggling liquor into the United States and accepting bribes from bootleggers.

The arrests, customs officials said, were the result of a sweeping investigation of eight months by undercover agents into alleged graft and corruption among inspectors in the Detroit area. Arrest of additional inspectors on similar charges is expected.

BULLS ARE CHECKED ON NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

New York — (AP) — Ten per cent call money, making its first appearance since Oct. 1, coupled with a bad break in Canadian Marconi on the New York curb market, forced a sharp reaction in prices on the New York stock exchange Friday afternoon after an early outburst of bullish enthusiasm had carried more than a score of issues to new high records. Early gains, which ran from $5 to $15 a share in a number of issues, were cut down, or wiped out, and in several instances replaced by losses which ranged from $5 to nearly $20 a share.

KING'S CONDITION SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

But British Monarch Is by no Means Out of Danger, Report Reveals

London — (AP) — King George's condition shows some improvement Friday but it was regarded that he is by no means out of danger as yet.

An official bulletin issued by his physicians early Friday afternoon stated:

"The inflammation of the lung and pleura shows some improvement. The temperature is slightly lower. The temporary exacerbation of the infection, it must be noted, has yet passed and in any case progress must be slow."

Hope for a normal recovery was perhaps stronger than at any time since it became known how serious the king's condition was.

The king, however, was not regarded as having turned the corner yet for it was recognized that the restoration of the tissues of the pleura to a healthy condition be a matter of several days during which the greatest skill of physicians would be demanded to avert any alarming development. Nevertheless, hopefulness was general regarding as justified.

What might be taken as a sign of the growing confidence of the public in the king's progress was the removal of the report of his illness from the leading column by two morning papers. Their stories on the king while still on the front page were given somewhat less space than before.

CONFESSES HE KILLED YOUTH ON HIS RANCH

Northcott Admits Murder of Mexican Youth—Denies Other Slayings

Bakersfield, Calif. — (AP) — Deputy district Attorney Earle Redwine of Riverside-co Friday morning announced that Gordon Stewart Northcott had made a complete confession of the slaying of an unidentified Mexican youth on the Northcott ranch, near Riverside.

Northcott was said to have told the officers that Sanford Clark, his 15-year-old nephew and principal accuser, added him in the murder.

"I am happy now that I have told it," Northcott was quoted as having said.

The confession came by degrees as officers were returning Northcott from British Columbia, where he was captured several months ago. His first admission, made late Thursday, was that he had burned the head of the youth at the ranch and buried the body at Puente, Calif., but he declined to say who killed the boy.

MUM ON OTHER MURDERS
Although his captors grilled him thoroughly they failed to shake from him any admission that he slew three other youths named in murder indictments returned against him, and Mrs. Sarah Louise Northcott, who is said to be his mother.

At one time, officers said, Northcott voiced an inclination to "take all the blame," officers have attempted also to get him to admit that Mrs. Northcott is not his mother, but thus far they have been unsuccessful.

Northcott indicated that he had knowledge of the existence of the other three boys named as his victims: Walter Collins of Los Angeles, and Louis and Nelson Winslow of Pomona, all of whom disappeared many months ago. The "ape man," as he has been called by his relatives, told the officers that he feared Collins never would return alive, but that he felt that the Winslow boys were safe.

BOY GIVES CLEWS
It was the revelation of young Clark, who told authorities that the Northcott ranch in Riverside-co was a "murder farm," that led to Northcott's arrest.

Young Clark, told investigators that Mrs. Northcott and her son forced him to take part in the slaying of one of the boys. Bones and bits of clothing uncovered at the ranch convinced investigators that fire and quick lime had been used to destroy bodies of the victims.

SPECIAL GRAND JURY TO PROBE BOMBINGS
Kenosha — (AP) — Circuit Judge E. B. Belden, was requested Friday by the state to call a special grand jury to investigate bombings, shootings, and attacks that have occurred in the county during the past year and remain unsolved. The vote was 13-6.

The board also voted to request the court to appoint special counsel to assist the district attorney in handling the presentation of evidence to the grand jury should it be called. Under the Wisconsin statutes, a grand jury is called only on special occasions.

Murderer of Albanian Minister Falls Under Fire at Opening of Trial

Prague, Czechoslovakia — (AP) — Alchide Behe, Albanian student who assassinated Zena Bey, Albanian minister at Prague and a brother-in-law of King Zogu of Albania, was shot to death Friday at the opening of his trial. His assassin was a servant of Zena Bey's brother.

Before the slayer could be seized, an Italian newspaperman was seriously wounded and a spectator suffered less serious injuries.

The court room was thrown into the wildest commotion by the tragedy. The assassin, whose name was not disclosed, fired six shots at his victim, the first of which killed Behe. Other shots struck the correspondent of Giornale D'Italia of Rome and Dr. Jettura, the interpreter.

At the discharge of the bullets, which the police later said were dum-dums, the throng in the court scurried wildly to the door. In an effort to make possible the assassin's escape, several Albanian kinsmen fired shots into the air adding to the undesirable panic. The judge leaped from the bench and two jurymen, seeking to escape, fell headlong on the floor. One dislocated his thigh bone and the other was trampled by the terrorized specta-

60,000 Hunt For Deer In North Areas

Wisconsin Season Opens Saturday in 22 Counties—Closes Dec. 10

Rhinelander — (AP) — All roads lead into northern Wisconsin for nimrod's Friday. The season for deer is at hand.

Saturday the hunting period will open, to continue through Dec. 10, and the day will find thousands of hunters tracking down what is said to be a bountiful supply of the animals. The closed season last year served to restock the depleted deer country. This has lured an army of hunters into the north woods.

Exact figures of the number of hunters would be difficult to gather but the 22 open season counties alone have issued more than 30,000 deer tags. Backwoods farmhouses are full of hunters, taken in as boarders by the short season; resort hotels are rapidly reaching capacity. Hunters are rapidly reaching capacity. Hunters are rapidly reaching capacity.

Many HUNTING CAMPS
The woods around Cranston are spotted with hunting camps and wardens have picked up numerous deer shot by impatient hunters and "hung up" to be taken out after the season opened. So numerous were the hunters in Bayfield-co that the Du Pont company has established a patrol around its plant near Washburn to protect more than 50 deer which have taken refuge inside the park fence.

On a highway near mountain several days ago a buck challenged the automobile of Ted Capden, Madison, but failed to damage either itself or the car.

To the uninitiated, it is explained that hunters' equipment includes not only licenses and guns but also poker chips, cards, portable phonographs and radios. The hunters must have their entertainment.

REQUESTS FOR DEER TAGS SWAMP CLERK
Fifty more deer tags, ordered Wednesday by John E. Hantschel, county clerk, when the original supply of 600 was exhausted, lasted only one hour Friday morning. Applications for deer tags were so heavy that Mr. Hantschel has wired the state conservation department for an additional 50 tags, bringing the total received this year to 700. Almost 300 more were issued in 1926. Mr. Hantschel and his deputies were kept busy Friday morning issuing licenses to Outagamie-co sportsmen planning to go to the northern part of the state Saturday in an effort to get deer. The season opens Saturday morning.THANKSGIVING BASKETS DISTRIBUTED BY ELKS
Thirty Thanksgiving baskets were distributed to Appleton's needy families Wednesday afternoon by the Appleton Elk ladies. The ladies arranged for and filled the baskets which were delivered by members of the club. Funds for the baskets came from the proceeds of the annual Elk charity show presented at Lawrence Memorial chapel a week ago.Pleads For Withdrawal Of Mexican Church Laws
Mexico City — (AP) — Bishop Miguel de la Mora of San Luis Potosi, Friday made a plea through the columns of newspaper El Universal for the government to withdraw religious restrictions. The bishop, who has been in hiding since the religious dispute broke out, explained that he did not represent any other priests but was speaking entirely on his own responsibility.

Bishop de la Mora said that to separate the people from the clergy was practically to separate them from their religion and to convert them into atheists.

Philosophers can understand the abstract," he wrote, "but the people cannot. Christ did not teach them abstract but only concrete realities which are represented by the Catholic church."

He explained that the clergy and the Catholics in general believed that they cannot comply with certain laws without transgressing the sacred rights of the church. He said that was the reason the clergy had left the churches two years ago.

The bishop maintained that the clergy was in a perfectly legal position since there was no law obliging them to officiate in churches. He said the laws that were objected to had nothing in common with the purposes of the revolution and did not contribute to the prosperity of the country nor to liberty of thought.

"Leave their religion to the people," he said. "It uplifts, consoles and moralizes them. Heed their clamor if you wish to work for their welfare. Destroy the source of hatred and rancor and settle once for all the religious question. Let us all be brothers in the great fold of the motherland—give the people what they ask and they will be happy."

SAYS MEXICO WILL REMAIN FRIEND OF U. S.

No Change in Oil or Labor Laws of Nation Contemplated, He Says

KEEPS CALLES POLICIES

Mexico Will Remain Friendly to U. S. as Long as Rights Are Respected

Mexico City — (AP) — Emilio Portes Gil took the oath as provisional president of Mexico Friday and pledged his administration to a continuance of the policies of the Obregon and Calles governments, especially in regard to friendship with the United States.

Immediately after being sworn in the new president read a brief message outlining the policies his government will pursue. Approximately 25,000 persons were in the national stadium to see the inauguration of the new chief executive.

Regarding foreign relations, Portes Gil mentioned especially those with the United States. He said that as long as the American government continued to show a desire to respect Mexican sovereignty, the American people would have no cause to complain about their southern neighbor. But he warned that sovereignty "is a point on which Mexico cannot concede or make concessions despite the magnitude of sacrifices that might become necessary."

DISTRICT IS ERASED
Saying that special mention was made of the United States because it is a neighbor and also due to the economic relations existing between the two countries, he added: "Fortunately, the wisdom and patriotism of which President Calles and Ambassador Morrow have served their respective countries, have created a mutual understanding, with all my heart, I desire may continue."

Portes Gil pledged his government to combat war, "even thoughts of war."

The incoming president said that Mexico was proud of her hospitality and generosity which had been demonstrated for more than a century and also proud of her independence. She will not, he said, change her policy of allowing foreign workers and capital to come and share the advantages of the land.

In regard to financial obligation he said the administration would endeavor to comply strictly with them whether they were internal or foreign.

Turning to domestic affairs, Portes Gil said that there would be strict fulfillment of the revolutionary program and continuance of the work of the Obregon and Calles administration. He said it must be frankly admitted that the revolution has incurred errors one of the principal being the formation of "governments of friends," relegating to second consideration questions of capability and justice in connection with the appointment of officials. He explained that it had been impossible to settle this problem because of unfavorable conditions existing at the time. He pointed out that General Obregon had his hands full dealing with those who thought that the revolution was merely a pretext for changing leadership.

IMPARTIAL APPOINTMENTS
Portes Gil said he would not consider personal friendship in appointing assistants. He would seek the most capable men. These must be able to do their job and to vote all their time and attention to the country, must serve the cause and not men and must abide by all the principles of the revolution.

The government, he announced, would adhere to Article 27 of the constitution—the article referring to oil and land problems—and also to Article 23—the article referring to labor laws.

He promised that the state would take no part in the presidential election of next year to choose his successor other than to guarantee equal rights to contending factions. He promised that the state would take no part in the presidential election of next year to choose his successor other than to guarantee equal rights to contending factions.

Portes Gil also promised that continued efforts for the betterment of the condition of workers would be made.

The religious problem was not mentioned by the incoming president. Portes Gil took the oath of office on a huge wooden platform, erected in the middle of the stadium. On it were seated the retiring president, members of congress, government officials, supreme court judges, the diplomatic corps, governors of states, and military chiefs from all parts of the country.

PHILANTHROPIST OF MINNEAPOLIS IS DEAD AT 83

Friend of Crippled Children
Sees Hospital Completed
Before His Death

Minneapolis, Minn.—(AP)—His life-long ambition to bring health and happiness to crippled children fulfilled, William Henry Eustis, philanthropist, lawyer and former mayor of Minneapolis, died here Thursday at the age of 83.

Mr. Eustis has been a cripple since he was 15 years old, the result of an injury. Despite the handicap, he had made a fortune during his 47 years residence here and he gave virtually all of his wealth to promote the welfare of unfortunate children.

His greatest gift in this connection was the deed of 65 acres of land near the city of Minneapolis to the University of Minnesota and the building and endowment of the Minnesota hospital and home for crippled children—valued at $1,500,000.

An accident made him a cripple at the age of 15 years, poverty prevented a fighting chance for recovery, but character enabled self-education and the ambition to earn one million dollars that he might dedicate it to the benefit of poor children afflicted as he had been.

Born at Oxbow, New York, one of a family of 12 children, Eustis found it necessary to help support the household. His father was a wheelwright and in addition to his shop had a small farm. It was while working on this farm at the age of 15 the youth met with an accident which made him a cripple.

Medical aid was scarce since the Civil war was on and the north needed its medical men to care for its wounded at the battle front. For five years he clung to his life with an interest in his existence that proved stronger than disease.

Finally, when able to leave his bed he managed to enter Gouverneur Wesleyan Seminary. He taught school and sold life insurance to help pay his way and he studied law continually.

In four years young Eustis completed seven years of schooling. In addition to working in spare hours, he fought for health until he was able to discard his crutches.

He came to Minneapolis a stranger but he took a vital interest in public affairs and became recognized as a leader. He invested wisely in real estate and with the rapid growth of his holdings were increased to include some of the city's most desirable business sites.

Mr. Eustis was one of the original directors of the Minneapolis, St. Paul, St. Louis and Northern Pacific railroad and he helped organize and became first secretary of the North American Telegraph Company.

In 1893 Mr. Eustis was elected mayor of Minneapolis. His term of office was noted for the manner in which he enforced the prohibition laws. To this end, he enlisted cooperation of the saloonmen, the police and civic organizations. This was his only entry into politics, with the exception of his selection as delegate to the Republican national convention in 1892.

SEA KING HOLDS COURT FOR HERB

Liquid, having oil of graphite rubbed in the hair and other forms of discomfort such as appearing in stocks or taking part in a chain gang.

The ceremonies began late Thursday with the appearance on ship of Davey Jones as herald for King Neptune.

Davey Jones was presented to President-elect Hoover and Mrs. Hoover, who sat with the captain. As he shook hands with each of them, he made a low bow and a wide flourish with his black, cocked hat. To the president-elect, he said:

"Welcome, Mr. Hoover, I welcome you here, and I also welcome Mrs. Hoover."

Even before Davey Jones appeared, the ship was busy with the pollywogs, arresting some officers as well as men. Those under arrest were handcuffed together and put in the brig on a bread and water diet.

While the rollicking show was going on Friday the Maryland was steaming swiftly southward so as to arrive at Ecuador at 5 o'clock Saturday morning. Off the coast of Ecuador the Hoover party will be transferred to the cruiser Cleveland for a 50-mile trip across the roadstead and up the river to Guayaquil where the president-elect will be the guest of President Isidro Ayza.

SOPHOMORES DO WELL IN VOCABULARY TEST

The average grade of sixty sophomores in Appleton high school was six points higher than standard in a vocabulary test taken at the school recently, and sixty juniors were within five-tenths of a point of the average score. One section of juniors had a score of 36 when the standard median was only 34.5.

The junior class median was 34.5, and the average of the Appleton juniors 34; the sophomore standard median was 28.5, and the Appleton juniors made 34.5, the standard for junior classes.

The Huntington Plymouth English vocabulary tests were given to the English students for the purpose of discovering the extent of their vocabularies, and of remedying the defects by comparison with the national standard.

construction (of buildings) in the United States has been unparalleled in the history of this or any other important country.

"This high activity reflects both expansion of the equipment of industry and commerce," Mr. Hoover's report said, after giving the figures of the continuation, "and marked improvement in the quality of that equipment, and, above all, in the quality of the homes of the people."

GOOD RAIL SERVICE
Railroads were said to "have continued to furnish adequate and efficient service and to enjoy large traffic and revenues."

"The betterment of railway service has been the result of effort on the part of railway companies themselves," it was added, "and of cooperation on the part of shippers and receivers of merchandise."

"The railways companies have improved their roadbeds and equipment. The country's business men have been particularly conspicuous in the form of regional advisory boards of the American Railway Association."

Analyzing the movement of gold to Europe, with the fluctuating reserve bank rate that has accompanied it, and the resulting swings in bank deposits, it was said that after making allowance for "the extraordinary volume of trading on the stock exchanges," the situation indicated "a healthy state of business activity."

The country's foreign trade was illustrated by special report sections prepared by Dr. Julius Klein, the department's director in that activity. Canada's emergence as the best customer of the United States, displaced Great Britain from a long held post, was noted, and the conclusion was expressed that international exchanges for the year had brought forth "very new investments of American capital in foreign countries."

EXPANSION OF EXPORTS.
Expansion in the export of manufactured goods, Dr. Klein said, in presenting a study prepared with the assistance of E. Dana Durand of the foreign trade statistics section, was the most remarkable fact disclosed.

"The efficiency of American production, the vigorous efforts of American business men in finding markets, and the active aid in promoting trade," the report declared, "have borne fruit which must furnish satisfaction to all classes of our people. Notwithstanding the exceptionally self-sufficient position of the United States, our high standards of living demand the import of a number of important and many minor commodities which the country itself cannot produce."

"The task of finding foreign markets for American products has met with noteworthy measure of success."

INCREASED AIR SERVICE.
W. P. MacCracken, assistant secretary for aeronautics, declared in an accompanying report that there had been "phenomenal progress in every phase of the industry" during the year. He remarked "unprecedented increase in air transport service alone," which had resulted in increasing the regular flown route mileage in the country from 8,396 miles in 1919. Railroad interest in the field had brought about cooperation, and the development of betterments had made more usable machines available.

"Commercial aeronautics is no longer on the threshold," he concluded. "It has entered the business world, and without subsidy, has become an integral part of American industry and transportation. There is every indication of still greater growth during the ensuing biennial period."

CALL CONFERENCE OF SCOUT HEADS TO INSTRUCT LEADERS

First Annual Gathering of
Two-day Session Opens at Menasha

It is expected 100 valley scout leaders, including patrol leaders, scoutmasters and assistants, will take part in the first annual Patrol Leaders conference at St. Thomas Episcopal church at Menasha Friday and Saturday, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive. Six are expected to attend from each troop in Clintonville, Menasha, Neenah, Seymour, Kaukauna and Appleton.

The indoor program Saturday afternoon may be held at the First Congregational church in Appleton. Original plans called for an out-of-door program at Camp Chickagami, valley scout camp Lake Winnebago. Weather conditions have been thus impossible, however.

One of the chief objects of the conference is to teach leaders how to direct a patrol, taking in all of the main patrol features. It is necessary for a leader to know his patrol and each individual. Ways of conducting patrol meetings and tests are to be discussed. A scout must be taught to obey and know what discipline is, according to Mr. Clark. Nearly every scout knows what it means, even though he might have a hard time actually defining it. A well disciplined patrol is one in which every fellow does just about the right thing at the right time, it is pointed out.

Much time of the conference is to be spent in studying the various kinds of hikes.

"Patrol hikes are useful in developing patrol spirit," Mr. Clark said. "It is especially essential that the leader is prepared in every way and is able to use his head. He must be things for his own. He must be a born teacher with plenty of patience and love for the tenderfoot."

"The scoutmaster should expect, besides the twelve duties of a patrol leader, a lot more—the ones in the scout manual are a minimum; but there's one special job that never should be overlooked. That is the job of welcoming the tenderfoot. Another special job may be the handling of the patrol in an interpatrol contest, because it is one of the most helpful of all methods of fostering patrol spirit."

Many other subjects having to do with out-of-door activities will be discussed, including, nature lore, campcraft, cooking, tracking and others. Heads of the various troops will aid Mr. Clark in advancing the projects.

DELEGATES LEAVE FOR BOYS' CONFERENCE

Chester Davis, Robert Neller, Alfred Venfur, and Elmer Root are representing the Appleton Y. M. C. A. at the Older Boys' conference at Janesville, this week. The local delegation left Thursday morning. C. Bailey, boys' work secretary, will leave Friday evening to attend the Saturday sessions.

Mars Shines Brightly In Last Month Of Year

The drawing above shows the path of Mars among the constellations in the eastern sky. The "snow cap" and canals of Mars as they were drawn and photographed at the Lick Observatory at the very close approach of Mars to the earth in 1924 are shown in the print.

BY ROBERT H. BAKER
(Professor of Astronomy, University of Illinois)

Urbana, Ill.—(AP)—The planet Mars will be a brilliant object in the evening sky during December, rising in the northeast soon after midnight and remaining in view throughout the night. Its brightness and red color easily distinguish it from neighboring stars.

Only two starlike objects outshine Mars; they are both visible in the early evening, but in other parts of the sky. Venus, the evening star and the brightest of all, appears low in the west while the great planet Jupiter is high in south.

Mars comes nearest the earth on December 15, when its distance is 54 million miles. A telescope magnifying only a hundred times will then make it appear nearly as large as the moon does to the naked eye.

Many people will remember the unusually close approach in 1924, when the planet was only 35 million miles away. Those exceptionally favorable opportunities occur at intervals of 15 or 17 years; the next will be in 1930. But the present opposition is a good one for observations.

It is interesting to watch the planet's changing place among the stars from night to night. Now it is near the feet of Gemini, the Heavenly Twins. By February 1 it will have moved westward to a position between the horns of Taurus, where it will slowly turn around and resume its normal eastward movement.

Like all the other planets Mars revolves around the sun from west to east. Being farther from the sun than we are and so revolving more slowly, it is overtaken and passed by the earth at intervals of 780 days. On these occasions the planet seems to move backward or westward.

Through the telescope the surface features can be seen more clearly than those of any other planet. Indeed, the surfaces of most planets are entirely concealed by the cloudy atmospheres around them.

But the Martian surface is at best none too distinct. Aside from the large green patches on the red disk of the planet and the white caps at its poles, experienced observers have differed widely as to what is really there.

The "canals" of Mars exist beyond much doubt. These elusive streaks have been seen too often to be illusions; and they have been photographed with some degree of accuracy. But the theory that they are artificial markings, and therefore that intelligent life is present there, does not find favor among astronomers generally. These markings are green in the Martian spring and turn brown as autumn approaches, suggesting seasonal growth and decline of vegetation.

The latest Martian mystery relates to the white caps at the poles; snow caps they have been called, and snow caps they were thought to be.

$200,000 MAY BE AVAILABLE FOR 10 YEARS TO COLLEGES

Board of Normal Regents
Will Make Proposal to State Legislature

Madison—(AP)—Wisconsin's state teachers colleges will have $200,000 each year for the next ten years with which to erect school buildings, if the proposal of the board of normal regents for the 1929 legislature is accepted.

The board chose the ten-year "economy" program rather than a specific request for funds for the biennium only, Edgar D. Doudna, secretary, revealed today.

Mr. Doudna said the board considered this a "better scheme because it leaves the whole matter of economy in the building program up to the board itself—so that it will get as much building for its money as is possible, instead of getting a building for the amount appropriated by the legislature for a certain building project."

The plan to ask the 1929 legislature to set up the ten-year building appropriation at $400,000 per biennium was accepted by the regents after it was found that under a "priority" building schedule, requests for building funds would mount nearly $2,000,000 for the 1929 legislature.

Under the scheme, a clause would be inserted that would call for the building of the Milwaukee Normal school gymnasium first. This building, for which the normal school board originally planned an appropriation of $250,000 would take $250,000 out of the first biennium's $400,000. This would be more than the $300,000 planned for each year, but will be necessary because of the higher building costs in Milwaukee, Mr. Doudna reported the board as finding.

As a basis for comparison, it was found that the appropriation of $200,000 a year would be considerably less than the board asked of the legislature was for $250,000 for the first year of this biennium and $150,000 for the second year. The joint finance committee of the legislature is expected to report on the plan.

In fact, recent photographs, however, seem to place them in the atmosphere of the planet, rather than on its surface.

RELIEF FROM CURES OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies attracts water from the system into the lax, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c, today at Downer's Pharmacy.

$75,000 LOSS REPORTED IN FIRE AT MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee—(AP)—Fire, originating in the basement, made speedy headway and caused an estimated damage of $75,000 to the Milwaukee Auto Salvage Auto company here Thursday night. Stacks of tires and accessories fed the flames.

Two firemen, working on the roof of the blazing building narrowly escaped injury, before they were rescued by comrades. Three families living in second floor apartment west of the fire were forced to flee from their homes.

For the first time, the firemen found it advisable to use fulminate chemical injected into the water through hose lines to quench flames caused by greasy or oily substances.

MANY FARM MEETS SCHEDULED FOR COMING SEASON

Annual Gatherings of Various Groups to Be Held in Next Month

Madison —(P)— The open season for annual gatherings of farm folks has arrived.

Annual meetings of county, district, and state associations, regular conventions of agricultural organizations, special exposition of agricultural products and numerous assemblages of particular interests to farmers and homemakers will be held in many of the agricultural communities of the state from now until the close of the winter season, officials of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture announce.

In announcing the annual gathering of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation, C. G. Huppert, secretary of the organization, says special emphasis will be given cooperative marketing regarded as of unusual significance to agriculture at this time.

Among the headlines on the federation program will be H. H. Bakken, of the agricultural staff of the University of Wisconsin, who has been giving special study to the problems of the agricultural cooperatives. He has during the last year investigated work of the Wisconsin Tobacco Pool, as well as several farm cooperatives on the Pacific coast.

Wisconsin will be represented at the forthcoming International Livestock Exposition, for B. H. Heide, general manager of the show, reports that entries have already been received from a large number of Wisconsin breeders of meat animals. Included among the exhibitors of the Badgers state will be the University of Wisconsin, presenting exhibits of sheep, swine, beef cattle and horses.

COMPETENT JUDGES
Among the judges will be W. F. Renk, Dane-co., recognized as one of America's foremost sheepmen, and Burlie Dobson, Grant-co., prominently identified with swine producing industry of Wisconsin.

Next week, Chicago will be the mecca of breeders of all classes of live stock, particularly meat yielding animals. In many of these references, Wisconsin stockmen hold important positions. H. A. Martin, Richland county, is the secretary of the Red Poll Cattle club; Frank Harding of Waukesha, managing director of the American Shorthorn Breeders' Association, and other Badger breeders are taking leading parts.

A meeting in Chicago, Dec. 4 and 5, which will command interest in almost every part of Wisconsin is that of the International Association of Fairs and Expositions. There are between 70 and 100 county and district fairs each year in Wisconsin, and many of these expositions are coming to be more and more generally recognized on the basis of the returns in productive results to the rural life of these agricultural communities. It is expected that Walter A. Duffy, commissioner of agriculture and J. C. Borchert, manager of the Wisconsin State Fair, will be among those at the conference.

When the horticulturists meet in Milwaukee next week they will receive reports of five special committees charged with responsibility of recommending varieties of bush fruit, vegetables, shrubs and tree fruits adapted to Wisconsin conditions.

The work of the Wisconsin Cheese Producers' Federation will be viewed first hand by members of the American Society of Dairymen when they meet in Plymouth for their annual meeting Dec. 11.

5 VOCATIONAL SCHOOL BOYS ARE GIVEN JOBS

Five Appleton vocational school boys have been placed as apprentices in local printing and shoe repair shops since school opened this fall, according to Herb Heide, director. Three were placed in printing shops and two in shoe repair shops. The aim of the school is to place as many boys as possible this year, and a new system of testing boys for ability is being used. When a position is open all boys in the school are notified and are given examinations to find those most adequately equipped to handle the job. ONE ACCIDENT ON THANKSGIVING DAYCollision Between Train and Automobile Only Holiday
Mishap

Neenah—Thanksgiving passed off quietly here with but one accident. A car driven by Leonard and Gerald Reilly ran into a Soo line switch engine standing on the Winneconne-ave crossing early Thursday morning. Family reunions were held at many homes; stores, banks and city offices were closed all day. The weather was almost perfect. The Kiwanis conducted a children's party at the theatre in the morning and the Eastern Star held a dancing party in the evening at Masonic temple. There were no arrests. The fire department was called out but once to extinguish the blaze which had started in the auto which collided with the Soo engine. Many needy families were made happy with baskets filled with food presented by charitable people and from children who donated food stuffs as admission to the Kiwanis show. The shows at the theatre were well patronized all day and many people traveled to neighboring cities. The Union church service was conducted in the morning at Whiting Memorial Baptist church.

CALLAHAN'S JOB
ISN'T SO SIMPLE

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Has
About 50 Separate Tasks

Madison—(AP)—This might be a "soft" job, if—
John Callahan, state superintendent of public instruction faces the task of having fifty separate duties to fill, many of which include 15 distinct classifications, besides being an ex-officio member of seven state boards.

Mr. Callahan's two score and ten activities, according to the Wisconsin Journal of Education, includes tasks ranging from the order to "deposit moneys received with the state treasurer once each week" to collecting school books, maps, apparatus and charts.

Among the duties are edicts that the state superintendent must "stimulate interest in education," exclude all secretaries books and instruction from the public schools; spread of the gospel of education through addresses, correspondence and bulletins; prepare and publish courses of instruction; compile Memorial and Arbor Day pamphlets; issue teaching licenses and certificates; secure bids and make a contract for books; prepare a course in agricultural economics and apportion various state school funds.

As state superintendent of public instruction, Mr. Callahan is ex-officio member of the following groups: Board of University Regents, Board of Normal School Regents, State Board of Vocational Education, Wisconsin Mining School Board, Free Library Commission, Annuity Board, and Geological and Natural History Survey.

The education publication explains that the constitution and legislatures have set up twenty four funds to be apportioned by the state superintendent for various instructional and administrative activities, and "this branch of service is the most important of the department of public instruction."

Membership of the seven boards, the article explains, "enables him to maintain close contact with the progress of the states educational machinery."

To supplement his business duties, Mr. Callahan and his staff participate in committee work of numerous organizations both state and national.

Madison—(AP)—Charles E. Whelan, former mayor of Madison and assistant attorney general of Wisconsin, an outstanding figure in fraternal activities and an author, died suddenly Thursday while on a Thanksgiving day visit to his family here. He was taken ill while in the business district and died soon after in his home from a heart affliction.

Mr. Whelan was a Thirty-third degree Mason, a past grand master and a past consistory commander-in-chief. For 28 years he was supreme national lecturer of the Modern Woodmen of America, and since 1926 had been publisher and manager of the Modern Woodmen magazine at Rock Island, Ill.

He returned from Rock Island to Madison Thursday morning to spend Thanksgiving day with his family at 411 W. Washington-ave. When he went for a walk uptown at noon he was suddenly taken ill, according to his son-in-law, E. H. Peck, of Syracuse, N. Y., who accompanied him.

He was the author of many books and poems. It was his custom to write his own Christmas and Thanksgiving greetings to his friends.

AMERICAN STATES GATHERING AIMS AT ARBITRATION

International Conference Will Be Held at Washington on Dec. 10

BY L. A. BROPHY
(Associated Press Feature Editor)
Washington — (P)—The countries of the Americas will be bound by uniform policies for the peaceable settlement of all questions that nations arbitrate if the International Conference of American States on Arbitration and Conciliation at Washington December 10 reaches the objective for which it was called.

The conference was projected a year ago after the close of the sixth Pan-American Congress at Havana and the United States was asked to play the host.

It comes now at a time when the continuance and strengthening of amity between the United States and the countries of Latin-America is in the forefront of world attention because of the good-will tour of President-elect Herbert Hoover.

This requested effort of the United States to aid its southern neighbors to better relations among themselves, which if successful will mean a spur to economic progress, will find itself in a well-lighted position in the world's attention.

The conference has two broad aims:

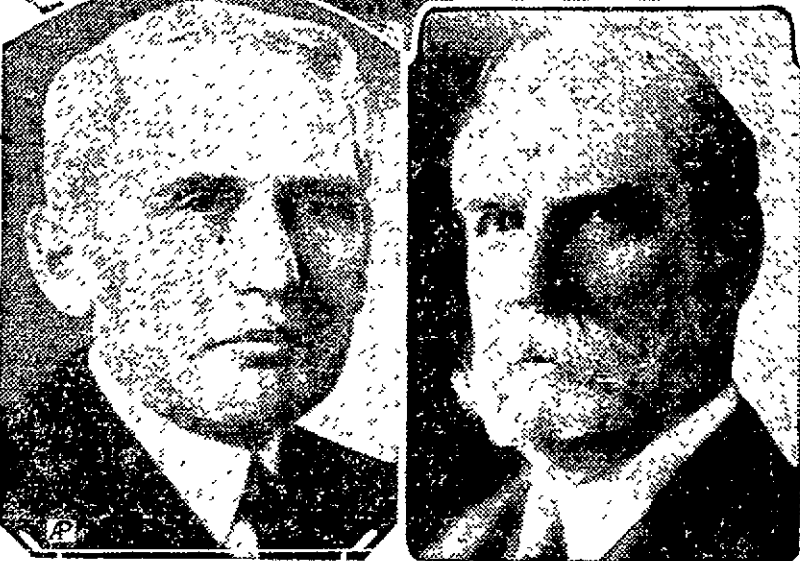

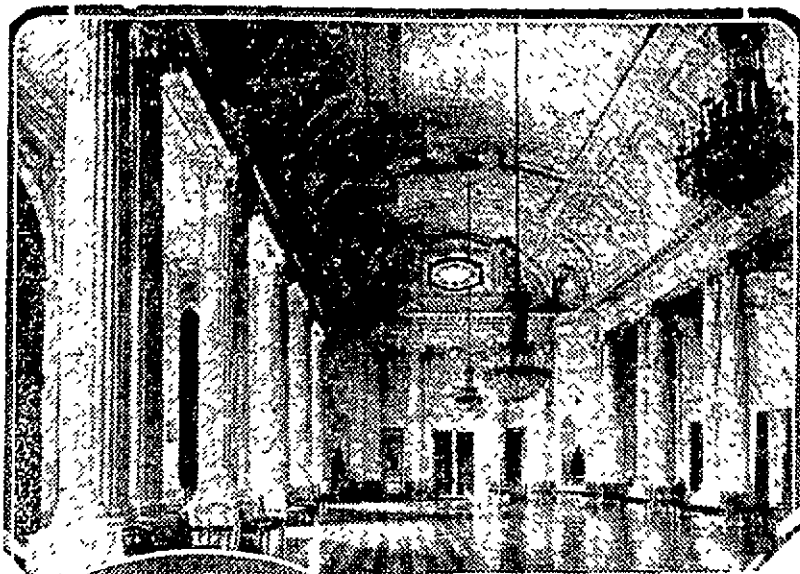

- (1) To lay down certain fundamental principles to be followed by all Latin-American countries in settling disputes which are arbitral and to provide a uniform method of selecting arbitrators.

- (2) To permit the United States to sign arbitration treaties with all Latin-American countries. There are effective now five such treaties with Brazil, Ecuador, Haiti, Peru and Uruguay, all consummated in 1909.

Three of four fundamental non-arbitral principles which his country has incorporated in treaties with European nations will be included in the treaties projected for South America. They are questions of sovereignty and independence; domestic issues and matters affecting the interests of a third state.

The fourth is concerned with is-

American Conference Delegates

is affecting the Monroe Doctrine. Whether that will enter into discussions at the Washington Pan-American conference is a question no one can answer adequately, but it is admittedly one of interesting possibilities.

However, in the arbitration treaties existing between the United States and Latin-American countries, "national honor" and "vital interests" are other points not subject to arbitration. These, of late years, have been stricken out of new arbitration treaties, making the agreements more useful as the two subjects, it was admitted, formed a cover for a multitude of excuses.

Charles Evans Hughes and Secretary Kellogg are the American delegates to the gathering. Delegates from Latin-American nations number some of the most noted authorities from that continent on international law. They include Antonio Bustamante of Cuba, foremost Latin authority on international law; Auguste Bonamy of Haiti, a former president of the highest tribunal of the country, and Gustava Adstuz, president of the Dominican senate.

Cord Meyer of New York, a former state department attaché, who was secretary of the American delegation at the Havana congress, will be secretary general of the Washington conference, and Willard Robbins, newly appointed minister to Salvador, will be secretary of the American delegation.

The conference will assemble in the "Hall of the Americas" in the Pan-American Union building.

BARE LEGS IN STYLE

New York — (P)—Leather tanners are preparing their new lines for shoes of sun-tan shades, believing that next summer will witness a wide gain in the popularity of bare legs. Pink shades are barred, because of the feminine fad for sun-tanned skin. Hence sunburn beige, lido, sand and other light browns are favored.

U FACULTY GETS SMALL SALARIES

President Glenn Frank Says
Comparisons Show Professors Underpaid

Madison — (P)—The University of Wisconsin faculty staff is underpaid when compared to salaries by the Universities of Illinois and Michigan and other comparable institutions. Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the Wisconsin university, told the state board of public affairs at its meeting here this week.

Dr. Frank said Wisconsin can consider itself in competition with the Universities of Illinois and Michigan in securing and retaining the best teaching material, and therefore the university must pay bigger salaries.

"We ought not be afraid to pay any salary if the man is worth it and is needed for a key position on the faculty," the president said.

"We must guard against a continual turn-over in our staff."

By paying good money, he explained, Wisconsin can attract the cream of the young men coming out of the nation's schools.

Dr. Frank told the board that when he came to Wisconsin as president in 1915, the university had been standing still in the matter of attracting a competent faculty for a decade. After his arrival, the university concentrated on selecting a strong faculty. If this policy continues for another eight years, in Dr. Frank's opinion, Wisconsin will have one of the strongest faculties in the country.

There was a three percent increase in the staff the first year he was head of the school, he told the board. In the last two years there has been an increase of 5 per cent more.

In the same three years, Dr. Frank pointed out, there has been an increase of 21 per cent in the number of students enrolled. The president believes that the university's student body increases 15 per cent every two years.

Approximately 150 rabbits and 3,000 chickens and doves were on display at the show. Mr. Boldt expects to enter two rabbits in the Poultry and Rabbit show at the local Armory, Jan. 8 to 13. Hundreds of rabbits from throughout the county are to be entered.

STUDENTS REHEARSE FOR BIG PRODUCTION

The Mikado, which will be presented by the high school students at Escher's Appleton theatre Monday, Dec. 10, is the largest public production to be put on by the high school this year. The cast and chorus include 120 students, all of whom are practicing regularly with Miss Ruth McKennan, director of dramatics, and Carl S. McKee, music director.

The Mikado is the fifth annual production of the high school boys and girls idea clubs. In 1924 Pinafore Boujola; in 1926, The Belle of Barcelona; and in 1927, The Dragon of Wo Fu.

It is much better than starvation. That modern, scientific method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. Now the results in slender figures, new beauty and vitality, are seen everywhere.

HOOVER'S SOUTHERN TRIP

President-elect Hoover has been received by four of the Central American republics, San Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica. The warmth of his welcome in each instance shows a deep interest in both the visitor and his mission. In contrast to the more or less passive curiosity exhibited toward most of our goodwill emissaries to South America in the past, both public officials and the populace are enthusiastic over Mr. Hoover's coming. We think the impression he will make on Latin-America will center about his personality and the probabilities of his administration based on his previous record rather than any specific policies he may present. South and Central America know him to be a man with an international outlook and years of experience in almost every part of the world. Naturally they expect from a man of his type a broader understanding of their own affairs, problems and ambitions than from a president who has never been out of the United States, or from a high public official whose knowledge of the world is academic rather than practical.

That Mr. Hoover has an international mind goes without saying, nor does the fact constitute a reflection upon his Americanism. We have outgrown this provincial idea. In this respect he is better fitted for the presidency than many of his predecessors, for the time has arrived in the complexity, high development and closeness of foreign relations when we need in the White House a man who can estimate them at their true value and shape his policies in such a manner as to benefit not only the United States but other nations as well. We think South America sees Mr. Hoover in this light and that its unfeigned pleasure in receiving him is due more to general expectations, as well as to any specific proposals he may have to offer.

Furthermore, it is the first time a president-elect has ever gone out of the United States before his inauguration. He is, therefore, of much more importance to Latin-America than a man who has served as president and is no longer the nation's leader. He is much more important than any representative he could send or that has been sent. He is about to assume the power, influence and responsibilities of the presidency. He is the one man to whom Latin-America can look for favorable regard and the development of a program that will meet with its approval. Through him it is possible to find an advocate of the modification of the Monroe doctrine to meet modern necessities. Through him it is possible to find a friend who will bring about relationships between the United States and Central and South America based on mutual respect and confidence and in which each will share common benefits.

It is Mr. Hoover who can remove from that region of the world a distrust of American motives and purposes and who can shape our foreign policies as to make the Latin republics feel they are on a parity with the United States so far as their freedom of action, sovereignty and security are concerned. This, after all, is what they need more than anything else, and there is no reason why they are not entitled to it, for the truth is we have no designs upon them or their territory, and no intention of exploiting them to their injury. We have never approached Latin-Americans on quite the right basis. Whether we have meant to or not, we have conveyed the impression that they are in the nature of wards and dependents, and that whatever we do for or toward them is in a benevolent and patronizing spirit. Coupled with this is the apprehension on their part that our benevolence is based on returns and aggrandizement of political power.

Mr. Hoover, we think, is the man best calculated to dispel these notions and to set South America right with North America. We think he will prove himself by his administration. South America, like the rest of the world, looks upon him as competent, efficient, broad-viewed, human and practical. His southern trip, therefore, ought to yield the maximum of results. We believe it is not only the most important step ever taken by the government of the United States looking to a genuine consolidation of interests of the two continents, but that Mr. Hoover is exactly the man for the job. Undoubtedly South America senses these facts. We shall not be surprised if the outcome is a rapprochement too long deferred that will mean a new era in the affairs of the new world.

CHAIRMAN BRITTEN'S "BREAK"

Occasionally men in public life make some "break" that is positively amazing. They seem to lose their perspective entirely, and suddenly find themselves issuing some statement or committing some act that even an immature mind would know was out of place. Chairman Britten of the house naval affairs committee has put himself in this category by his cable to the prime minister of Great Britain suggesting the holding of a naval conference somewhere in Canada. Had he stopped to reason out what he was doing he would have seen that he was transgressing flagrantly the prerogatives of the chief executive, and occupying himself with a matter wholly beyond his right. Not only was his presumption inexcusable, but it is embarrassing to the president and the state department.

Mr. Britten's intentions may have been ever so good, but that does not relieve him from responsibility for a serious breach of duty. He must expect the reprimand he has already indirectly received, and he will be fortunate if he is not personally rebuked by the president. There is too great a tendency by politicians to interfere in the conduct of foreign relations. The constitutional limitations in this domain of government are wisely placed. To disregard them is to seriously endanger a continuity of foreign policy. We have had too much of this in the senate, to say nothing of the house.

A BROKEN LEG—GOOD LUCK

Sometimes we never know good luck when we see it.

A week or so ago Charles Hitchcock, policeman of the Lake Bluff, Ill., force, broke his leg and had to go to bed. Undoubtedly he bewailed his luck.

A few days later Miss Elfrieda Knaak was found, burned almost to the point of death, in the basement of the Lake Bluff police station. She told a confused story of a "psychic love" for Hitchcock, and said she had burned herself to prove her love.

Now it is obvious that the bewildered detectives, hearing this, must instantly have thought, "Aha! This story is fishy. This guy Hitchcock must have had a hand in things somewhere."

But Hitchcock, for several days, had been flat on his back in bed with a broken leg. By no stretch of the imagination could he be connected with the mysterious burning. That broken leg just naturally saved him from a lot of suspicion and questioning. He didn't know how lucky he was when he broke it.

A forest acts like a big sponge. The thick mat of leaves and moss at the base of the trees is able to absorb many hundred times its own weight in water.

The railroads of the United States use about 130,000,000 new wood ties every year; there are about 3,000 ties to the mile.

POST-TONIC

The Remedy is Worse Than the Malady

Personally, I don't think that all those federal court hearings, padlockings, fines and jail sentences at Green Bay will result in a total eclipse of the "moon." Of course, there will be a partial eclipse for a time, but we'll know that the moon, though darkened by the shadow of the dry law, is still there.

Jack Rohr (Hotan-Tonks) sure said plenty about the white man's treatment of the Indian, in his talk to the Appleton luncheon club Tuesday afternoon. "The Indian applied his religion daily—wasn't a worshipper of idols—neither did he wear his religion as a cloak—How about sending out some missionaries through the United States? One of the good things the white man has done for the red man was in sending him to lands nobody wanted. He repented, though, as soon as oil was found on said land. There's a certain well-known island the white man bought in New York for $24 and a barrel of whisky. Now the white man says he was cheated—he wants the whisky back."

Good laws elevate citizens, State Treasurer Sol Levitan said at Madison. Does the prohibition law come under that definition? Didn't it bring "high spirits" to the United States?

Frank Kraus, night clerk at the postoffice has been taking a correspondence course in English, and he is getting very critical about the use of words in the office. One of the boys insists on saying, "I learn you this, and I'll learn you that." It sort of got Frank's goat, so in a heat of anger, half filled with pity, he shouted, "Won't I ever be able to learn you to say teach."

—Harold the Imaginer.

One reason why flappers are so naughty," sagely remarks the Sheboygan Press, "is because they get the shingle in the wrong place."

This happened the day before Thanksgiving. Harold the Seer had taken the girl reporter to dinner the night before and the check amounted to $2.50. In the office Wednesday a r. remarked that she had been invited out to dinner. "Just think," she mused, "they're going to have a 15-pound turkey for six people." The Seer looked at her ruefully.

"Say," he said, "theyotta've bought an ostrich!"

"Till learn you," is a common expression of a certain Appleton man. The other day his partner looked at him with a disgusted expression. "Can't I ever learn you to say 'teach'?" he demanded. Names on request.

Harold the Imaginer says that his observations lead him to believe that all women believe in free speech—and practice that doctrine. The other night, he said, he learned the meaning of "sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof," and defined it by "too much is plenty."

It pays to advertise, but most bootleggers do not get caught merely to get the publicity. They don't have to go to such extremes in order to get customers.

THE CURE OF VARICOSE VEINS

Years ago Trendelenburg devised an operation for the cure of varicose veins, and the operation was quite successful in cases where the vein weakening, dilation or enlargement was limited to the superficial veins. It consisted of tying off the long saphenous vein at the point where it emerges to the surface in the upper aspect of the thigh. This ligation is still the best treatment in many cases of varicose veins, with or without varicose ulcer. In more recent years an American surgeon, Babcock, devised a better method, at least in cases where the varicose veins are not confined to superficial branches, the dissection and removal of the damaged lengths of vein.

This method is the most satisfactory treatment in some cases. Both of these methods are "surgical." In the popular sense of the word, and therefore seem more formidable to the patient than they do to the physician. I mean, the patient is likely to think these "surgical" procedures are more dangerous than other treatments, whereas the physician probably knows better.

In the past three or four years a third method of treatment has come into use. This is called the chemical obliteration of varicose veins, and consists in the injection into the vein, between tourniquets, of medications that bring about clotting, thrombus formation, and subsequently the shriveling of the vein. Just what medications are used in this treatment is a technical detail best left to the knowledge and judgment of the physician. I need only say that the medications thus used are in themselves incapable of doing any serious harm.

This chemical obliteration of varicose veins may be successfully employed by any good physician anywhere. Many doctors are now giving this treatment to patients in the office, without interfering with the patient's ordinary occupation.

To almost any physician whose ideas of such treatment are necessarily wholly theoretical it would seem that there might be some danger involved in danger of embolus, that is, a kind of infection into the general circulation and consequent septicemia or "blood poisoning." If such dangers were actual, the chemical obliteration treatment of varicose veins could scarcely make headway. But experience proves that there is actually no such risk involved.

Labor in France reported 6,000 injections. Note in Germany reported 3,000 injections. Other physicians in American have added cases until there were a total of more than 14,000 cases of varicose veins treated with chemical injections, and among all these only four fatalities. In fact the chemical obliteration of varicose veins has proved a safer procedure than either of the older surgical methods above mentioned.

I regret I am not in a position to refer readers to physicians who give this treatment. Any good physician may give it successfully. And any physician who keeps reasonably well posted on the progress of his profession has access to all the necessary technical information concerning this method.

The comparative painlessness, its safety, its availability everywhere, and the fact that it does not interfere with the ordinary occupation, should commend chemical obliteration to every sufferer, whether or not he has had any surgical treatments.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
No Morbid Suggestions
I believe you have offered to send anyone who asks for it a treatise on some and similar skin troubles. (A. E. W.)

Answer—I have no treatises or other material to distribute.

Delighted to hear
I am a girl 16 years old and I might be quite happy only that my face is constantly breaking out with pimples. I have had blackheads for two or three years and my skin seems to be too greasy. I never use any cream. (E. H. L.)

Answer—Repeat your request and enclose a stamped envelope bearing your address. I will send you advice by mail.

White Elephant
I have been presented with several bottles of somebody's compound syrup of hypophosphites, containing hypophosphites of potassium, calcium, sodium and manganese together with iron and the tonic alkaloids quinine and strychnine. Each teaspoonful represents one sixty-fourth grain of pure strychnine. (Miss S. M. H.)

Answer—Reminds me of the generous offer of the quack who promised a dozen bottles of his wonderful restorative to any customer who bought a dozen bottles and then said the stuff did him no good. This "compound syrup of hypophosphites" is one of the most absurd concoctions ever foisted on a gullible public through the kindly help of a credulous medical profession. The best way to dispose of the lot you have acquired would be to empty it in the sink. Aside from the strychnine in it, the stuff is practically inert. It takes a highly imaginative artist to call strychnine a "tonic."

Undies for Children
What would you advise as the most sensible underwear for young children in the winter time. They are healthy and play out of doors, of course with warm wraps. (Mrs. A. E. H.)

Answer—If they were my kids I'd let them wear the least in the way of under-clothing they might wish. In any case, light weight material, perhaps of wool and cotton or wool and silk, with sleeves to elbows and less to knees is probably most comfortable in all circumstances. The main thing to avoid is the practice of making a child wear excessive clothing at any time; if the child finds the underwear or other garments too warm for comfort, that is certainly unhygienic. If the child enjoys going with little or no underwear in the winter time, that is perfectly healthy. Like any other warm knees. (Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

THE VERDICT OF POSTERITY

Heywood Brown makes the interesting observation that it is not at all impossible that five centuries from now Harold Bell Wright or Zane Grey or an even more negligible writer may be regarded as the outstanding writer of the twentieth century. He suggests that the same tendency toward a lack of discrimination may persist in the future.

Writers often console themselves with the thought that they will leave the verdict to posterity, as if posterity can be relied upon to be an unerring and just judge. Nothing is more uncertain, thinks Brown. About all posterity can be relied upon to be is erratic. It happens again and again that the people alive on the earth at the moment choose for distinction fine books and utterly worthless ones indiscriminately. Posterity often does the same. There are many books that have a tremendous reputation, that everybody praises for its reputation and nobody reads. After a little it is regarded as a great book because so many generations have considered it so, each quoting the other.

It is not certain that Shakespeare will be considered great five hundred years from now. It all depends on the kind of people living then. Brown points out that for generations after Shakespeare's death, perfect poets were written up to him. He was looked upon as a rough diamond that ought to be polished and "corrected." There is no guarantee that the time will not come when the world will again so regard him. And there is no guarantee that the writers we regard with contempt will no be lionized. If we should again have a world full of people like those of the age of Pope we would have a world that would not very highly regard the Elizabethans or those of our own day who are now regarded as vital writers. If on the other hand we should in five centuries develop a race whose ideals are determined by the average movie it is not at all unlikely that they would be completely ignorant of the existence today of those we regard as great but would consider the Zane Grey type literary gods of the twentieth century.

People often argue that because a book continues to attract thousands for centuries it must necessarily be great. Such a fact is in its favor, of course, but not conclusive. It happens now and then that a book happens to fall in with the dominant stream of thought of a civilization and maintains its hold on that account while in itself it is comparatively commonplace.

There is sometimes true of books of a semi-religious nature. They gain and maintain a reputation for being great literature out of all proportion to their real merit, merely because they treat of a subject familiar to millions.

There is also an element of chance as to how posterity will regard a book. Sometimes a book begins its career on a great wave of national emotion, as did "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and gains a momentum that posterity cannot withstand. On the other hand, a great book sometimes is launched under unfavorable circumstances and posterity does not even hear of it.

SNOWBOUND WEST DIGS ITS WAY OUT

Six Rocky Mountain States
Experience Heavy Fall
Thanksgiving Day

Denver—(AP)—Residents of six snowbound Rocky mountain states turned from Thanksgiving feasting Friday to dig out from under a heavy snow that ended about the same time as the feasting did Thursday. The almost continuous 32-hour fall left the entire region blanketed with from one to two feet of snow, as moderate temperatures prevailed. The sun was expected greatly to aid in clearing away the drifts Friday. The outlook was for fair and warmer weather throughout the region.

The heavy fall called forth real Thanksgiving in the farming areas, as it brought needed moisture without causing suffering to livestock.

Many of the better known mountain passes appeared definitely closed to motorists for the winter. Railroads expected to open snowbound lines during the day, however, and resumption of air mail service was promised.

GOOD FOR WHEAT BELT

Omaha—(AP)—Snow that was a blessing to winter wheat farmers but a wet blanket to Thanksgiving day outdoor programs covered Nebraska and parts of Iowa Friday.

Sheets of snow at Des Moines, Ia., were blamed for the death of Mrs. Jonathan Thomas, 75, killed when two automobiles collided.

In western Nebraska snow choked the highways, but nowhere was transportation seriously affected. Absence of winds, kept damage to a negligible figure. Thanksgiving day annuals on the football fields of Nebraska suffered both in attendance and in play, the snow-soaked fields making anything but a dull slogging exhibition impossible.

Cold came with the snow, although the weather prediction Friday was for warmer weather.

In Omaha downtown traffic was suspended for some time early Thursday night until tractors had cleared the streets.

The entire state was covered, the storm starting in the western section late Wednesday. Some roads in western Nebraska and Wyoming were almost impassable, reports said.

STAGE And SCREEN

HEAVY DRAMA IN NEGRI FILM

Declared by Hollywood the most dramatic screen story of her career, Pola Negri's "The Woman from Moscow" comes to Fischers Appleton Theatre Saturday and Sunday with Joe Shoer and his band playing for 4 new acts.

The story has a powerful central situation—Miss Negri falls in love with the man she believes guilty of murdering her fiancé and whom she has sworn to deliver to his enemies. Miss Negri herself rates "The Woman from Moscow" with the picture she considers her greatest achievement, "Carmen." She places it above even "Passion," the production that brought her fame in the United States and which sent American producers to Europe to bring her to this country.

The story calls upon all of the stars dramatic power. Norman Kerry was selected from a long list of leading men for the part of the suspected murderer. Ludwig Berger, famous European director, was brought to America to direct this production.

It has a royal setting in modern Russia and later in the story, a brilliant, rich Parisian background. Other players appearing in Miss Negri's support include Otto Mattheson, Lawrence Grant, Maude George, Paul Lukas, Bodil Rosing, Milla Rayo, Maratha Franklin, Jack Lunden and Tetsu Komai.

Benjamin Christensen, director of this mystery film, has given every variety of thrill that can be conceived, and it is calculated that there are more shudders and chills in this picture than in any two similar productions.

The odd thing is that the comedy is almost constant also. But every laugh is topped by a thrill and even when the characters are doing the most absurdly ludicrous things, they show the pressure of the invariable menace.

Chester Conklin, Thelma Todd, Montagu Love, Larry Kent, Eve Southern, Flora Finch, Barbara Bedford, William V. Mong and others have prominent roles.

COAST GUARD KILLS MAN--PROBE BEGUN

Cabin Cruiser Is Captured on Lake—One Dead, Another Is Wounded

Buffalo, N. Y.—(AP)—Federal and county officials Friday were investigating a fatal shooting by the coast guard.

When the cabin cruiser Bug was captured in Lake Ontario, near the mouth of the Niagara river, Thursday, Carl Anderson, 38, of Lewiston, one of the Bug crew, was shot to death and Edmund Sabr, 24, of Niagara Falls, the other member, seriously wounded.

Coast guardsmen assert the shooting was justified. They said the boat, a suspected rum runner, failed to heave-to when ordered.

Last spring the fatal shooting of

Jacob D. Hanson occurred only a short distance from the scene of Thursday's fatality. Hanson, secretary of Niagara Falls lodge of Elks, was mortally wounded while driving his automobile up Lewiston hill in Niagara-co. He was suspected by coast guardsmen at the time of running rum, but no liquor was found in his car and acquaintances later cleared his name of all suspicion. There was no liquor aboard the Bug, but from the pockets of the dead man according to the guardsmen, were taken clearance papers for ale and a bill of lading dated Nov. 28 for a consignment of 200 cases of ale to C. Anderson, Wilson, via Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont. Niagara customs authorities said that the Bug cleared from Niagara-on-the-Lake Wednesday night with 200 cases of ale aboard.

By Order of the City Council of Menasha, Bus Service over Mill St. Bridge will be discontinued Dec. 1st. All busses will operate via Main St. Bridge and their patrons will transfer across foot bridge for busses to Neenah. WIS. MICH. POWER CO.

To Dine On Saint's Day

St. Andrews night will be observed by the Robert Burns club with a dinner at 8:30 Friday night at Hotel Northern. St. Andrew is the patron saint of Scotland and St. Andrew day is observed annually on Nov. 30 by the club.

E. M. Ingier will be the speaker of the evening. He will speak on Scottish Influence on American History. An informal program will be given, numbers of which will be Scottish selections on the violin and piano by John Taylor and Mrs. John Michie; Scottish dances by Caroline Bosticher, Scottish songs by Miss Margaret Stewart; a duet by Mrs. John Oliver and John Michie; readings by Mrs. A. Graham. Community singing will follow the program and there will be cards. John Oliver, secretary of the club, is in charge of the arrangements.

HERE'S GROUCH CURE
SAYS "BORN GROUCH"

Orlando, Florida.—One man, at least, admits that he is a grouch. He not only does that, but adds that his father and his grandfather were also grouches. And, while he is still inclined to think that he remains a grouch, Cecil Eastman, 225 East Robinson Avenue, has found that a lot of sunshine and happiness has been brought into his life by a simple change of diet that Mrs. Eastman induced him to make. How this diet change affected his grouchiness, Mr. Eastman records below:

"I am a grouch. My father was a grouch. The original old boy who crowded over on the Mayflower was a grouch, and raved in the New England woods nine grouchy sons named from Adam to Zachariah. I have been loaded with crepe and vinegar. On my honeymoon, Susanah, my wife, diagnosed my case. 'Quit using caffeine,' she said, 'and knit up your ravelled nerves.' I did—for a week. I grew mauldlin sorry for myself and the experiment nearly wrecked our romance. So we weakened and began serving me my caffeine. This continued for eighteen years while I remained a grouch but showed enough human streaks to get along with her."

Tries New Drink

"Then one morning Sue fixed some Postum in a percolator and showed it to me bubbling against the glass. It was Sunday. Breakfast was late. I was hungry. I drank a cup and had another cup with my second egg."

"Now, for more than a month, caffeine has meant nothing to me. Not once in the last week have I had to read myself to sleep. Yesterday, I weighed 131 pounds."

How Grouches Start

Ravelled nerves and lack of sleep can make a grouch of the most cheerful and optimistic man living. You simply can't smile and be happy when you're rising from a sleepless bed, tired in every nerve. But the really sad part of it is that many men fail to trace their grouchiness to its source—often the harmful stimulant they take with their meals. They fail to realize that caffeine, a known nerve irritant, by disturbing sleep and burning up reserve energy, has turned many a man into a "bundle of nerves."

Try this test and see how it works in your case! Eliminate caffeine from your diet for thirty days—drink Postum with your meals instead. Then decide if you ever want to go back to caffeine! Postum contains no drug of any kind. It is made of roasted whole wheat and bran. There's nothing in it to get on your nerves, to disturb sleep or digestion. It's a drink you can enjoy, too! A drink with a rich, full-bodied flavor millions prefer. Your grocer has Postum in two forms—Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup, and Postum Cereal, the kind you boil. Both cost less than other mealtime drinks—only one-half cent a cup. Order today—start your good-day test!

SOCIETY WILL
THANK SERVICE

The Womens Missionary society of Emanuel Evangelical church will observe a public Thank Offering day Sunday. The Rev. J. F. Nienstedt will preach a Thank Offering sermon at the morning service and the annual Thank Offering gifts will be taken for the mission fund.

Back to Homeland is the title of the pageant which will be presented at the evening services at 7:30 at the church. The pageant is the story of a young man, who lived with his parents in Japan, and decided to become a missionary. He came to America and became so thoroughly Americanized that he abandoned the idea. He returned to Japan and later became convinced that his true mission was being a pastor in the United States.

The cast includes John Trautman, Joseph Pitz, Lawrence Voss, Edward Dettman, Louis Wurl, Earl Dehart, Robert Luedtke, Floyd Johnson, Orville Selig, Ralph Robin and Mrs. E. O. Mueller, Mrs. George Breitrick, Mrs. J. F. Nienstedt, Mrs. Paul Radtke, Mrs. F. Sabellich, Mrs. F. Jabas, Miss Aronell Bleike and Miss Augusta Bethke. A trio composed of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Polzin and Arthur Erdman will play mandolin selections between scenes.

Mr. and Mrs. Mertle Basing of Milwaukee spent Thanksgiving day with Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Basing of this city.

Damsheuser, Mrs. F. Schultz, Mrs. C. Kittner, Mrs. E. Polzin, Mrs. Peter East, Mrs. Harold Krueger and Mrs. A. Limpert.

Circle No. 7 of the Women's Association of First Congregational church will hold a rummage sale at 9 o'clock Saturday morning at the church. Miss Hilda Hettinger is captain of the group.

Miss Signe Wennerstrand returned Friday morning from Westboro where she spent Thanksgiving with her parents.

Miss Rose Ann Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Marshall, 218 N. Drew-st, has as her guest this week, Miss Maxine Langfeld. Both Miss Marshall and Miss Langfeld are students at the National Kindergarten college at Evanston.

Why not start the day right?

Healthful breakfasts can and should be the most appetizing

If THE fiber foods are so important in our diet—and food authorities impress upon us that they are—why not start the day right by eating them for breakfast? They can be made into the most delicious and satisfying breakfasts imaginable.

Just think for a moment what foods it is that furnish the bulk and fiber that our bodies need so badly. They are: bran and cereals, and fruits and vegetables, all but the last being ideal for the first meal of the day. What is more tasteful and beneficial, for example, than cereal with milk and sugar? What is more delicious for breakfast than grapefruit, sweetened to taste, or apples or pears sweetened or baked? Nearly everyone enjoys apple sauce or stewed prunes or other dried fruit with the morning toast and coffee.

Note that sugar is mentioned in connection with each one of these healthful foods. Sugar is the ideal flavor that Nature has provided, thus enabling people to enjoy the kinds of foods that are best for them.

One fact cannot be stressed too much. All growing children should eat hearty breakfasts of bone and teeth building, body developing foods such as the cereals, milk and fruits. Proper bodies need so badly.

Eat varied healthful foods, so sweetened that they are delicious and enjoyable. The Sugar Institute.

CALL HOOVER TRIP TO SOUTH AMERICA DIPLOMATIC STROKE

U. S. Interests in Neighboring Country Will Be Strengthened as Result

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington — Hoover may turn out to be a better or worse president than Coolidge, but it is pretty certain that he is going to be different. His South American visit can encourage those who believe he will make a new type of chief executive and that the change will be all to the good.

Fed things could do more to strengthen our interests in this hemisphere than Hoover's trip. It is a master stroke. Latin America is an important prop to our prosperity, and the least resistant field in our war for world trade. Hoover now appears to have meant what he said when he insisted during the campaign that there were some things a president could do about prosperity.

Some time between now and inauguration a brief checkup on the sort of president Hoover is likely to make, based on past performance, may be in order. Now that the campaign of partisanship are only smoldering, this may be as good a time as any. Let's enumerate, first for better and then for worse, in a thumbnail analysis:

1. Hoover will enter the White House with greater potentialities than any president within memory. His background of achievement goes far outside that of Harding or Coolidge. It transcends that of the cloistered, scholarly Wilson. It affords high hope that Hoover will always put the interests of the nation above that of party.

2. There have been innumerable instances of a personal humbug about Hoover which suggest that he isn't going to forget about the underdog; that although he may not antagonize Big Business he will at least attempt to see that the "masses" don't get all the bad breaks.

3. Hoover has initiative. His administration promises progress, in what direction one cannot predict, but we are not in for a period of standstill. He ought to be able to guide and guard American prosperity at least as successfully, and perhaps more so, than any other man mentioned for the presidency in 1928 could have done.

4. He is well equipped to put the machinery of government on a more efficient basis than it ever has operated on.

So much for Hoover the engineer. Hoover the administrator, Hoover the organizer and Hoover the humanitarian. On the other side of the picture here are his visible flaws:

1. Politically speaking, he is not entirely scrupulous. That does not mean that his personal character is not spotless or that any other successful politician has such things as scruples. The charge is made that he permitted important members of his political machine to circulate religious propaganda during the recent campaign.

2. Hoover has seldom been bold except when there was everything to gain by boldness and nothing to lose. He has been a burning crusader against such unpopular institutions as bolshevism and in favor of prosperity and the American home. He has seldom engaged in any fight until victory was as good as won. His campaign tactics seemed to be typical of him, although they were also undeniably good politics. He has been even more silent than Coolidge on Republican scandals.

3. He has often been accused of timidity. So much for that. There is no reason to suppose that the defects shown by Hoover's history are bound to handicap him now. As president, with a favorable Congress, his power will be almost limitless.

The caution which he has heretofore exhibited may become one of his virtues; it seems extremely likely that he will act most vigorously when and if he is assured of the support of the American people.

No man can rise to high political office except under almost inconceivable circumstances, without sacrificing much of his self-respect. Men of lower rank nearly always continue to sacrifice self-respect in realization that it is necessary if they are to rise. But Hoover is now sitting on top of the world. He can be himself. He need not fear anyone. He can afford to tell anyone, at any time, just where to get off.

Vigilance Is Required To Stamp Out Rabies

Madison—(P)—Vigilance on the part of local officials cooperating with local and state health authorities will result in stamping out rabies in Wisconsin. Fifteen years ago a strenuous campaign against the disease was conducted, with the result that there were only a few cases of rabies a year. Recently new outbreaks of the disease have been reported.

To assist local communities in ridding the state of the rabies menace, generally spread by strayed dogs, the educational committee of the State Medical Society of Wisconsin has issued bulletin in which it is pointed out that the prevention of rabies after a bite from a rabid animal is accomplished by prompt attention to the wound.

"For the past few years the disease has been on the increase throughout the country and in many states it has become a serious problem," declares the bulletin of the State Medical Society. "This disease is serious because of its menace to human life and because of the economic loss which it inflicts. Every year in Wisconsin many thousands of dollars are lost by farmers because of this disease. The death of domestic animals runs very high every year. Frequently an outbreak of rabies rages out all the cattle in a herd. Horses and other domestic animals are also attacked."

"The presence of the disease is always a menace both to human life and domestic animals. It is perpetuated through lower animals, especially the dog and it is this animal which is most responsible for the spread of the disease and for its destruction to other domestic animals. The disease is also propagated by ground squirrels, skunks and other wild animals."

"There is no treatment which will effect a cure. Once the symptoms have developed, death is certain in both man and lower animals. Preventive treatment is, however, highly successful. It consists first of preventing the spread of the disease by the proper control of dogs. It is possible to completely stamp the disease out if stray dogs are killed, and no dog is allowed to be off his premises without his owner and if communities where it is prevalent are quarantined against it until the disease is stamped out. Dogs can also be given preventative inoculations. In Japan rabies is reported to have been successfully controlled by giving dogs one injection of a modified Pasteur treatment. This treatment has to be repeated each year. "The prevention of rabies after a bite from a rabid animal is accomplished by prompt attention to the wound. It should be thoroughly cauterized with fuming nitric acid. After this is done preventive inoculation should be taken. This treatment is easily given and is put up in such a way that it can be shipped

SARGON IS BEST THING IN TOWN SAYS SALESMAN

"It's Just The Thing To Put Pep Into A Man" States
Strikler

No stronger evidence of the amazing powers of Sargon could be offered than that which comes in simple, straight-forward statements from those who have actually taken the new formula and voluntarily come forward to tell their experience. Thousands of Milwaukee people are now taking Sargon with the most astonishing and gratifying results and scores are coming forward daily to tell of the wonderful benefits they have received from its use. Prominent among this number is B. F. Strikler, 73 Prospect Ave., well-known and popular salesman for one of Milwaukee's largest manufacturing industries. Mr. Strikler said:

"For the past year and a half I have not been in the best of health, and suffered a great deal from inactive liver, indigestion, and a tired, worn-out feeling. I had very little appetite and what I did eat did not seem to assimilate properly for it gave me little strength and I suffered a great deal from gas on my stomach. While I was not exactly sick, I felt tired and out of sorts generally, and did not have the pep and energy that is necessary to a salesman. My work seemed to get harder every day, but of course it didn't; it was just the condition I was in."

"A friend, who was taking Sargon with fine results persuaded me to try the medicine, too, and the benefits I derived from it are so wonderful it is a genuine pleasure to recommend it. The worn out feeling is gone and I feel fine and full of energy. My stomach no longer bothers me, my liver is active and regular, and I have gained four pounds in weight. Sargon is the best medicine I ever used, and is just the thing to add the pep and zest a salesman needs."

Sargon may be obtained in Appleton from Volz's Drug Store. adv.

THREE MAYORS ATTEND CEREMONY FOR BRIDGE

Marquette, Ia. — (P)—Mayors of Marquette and McGregor, Ia., joined Thanksgiving day with the mayor of Prairie du Chien, Wis., in turning the first shovels of dirt for a new million dollar bridge across the Mississippi river here. Five thousand persons attended the ceremony, which took place on the Wisconsin bank.

Because of the large number of cattle grazing on marshy lands, Holland is waging an extensive crusade against borine tuberculosis.

EASY TO FIND OUT IF YOUR ANCESTORS WERE ON MAYFLOWER

Here's a Simple Way to Figure Just Who You Descended from

BY NEA SERVICE
How many ancestors have you, anyway?

You may not have any aunts, uncles or cousins—that you know of, but if you once start figuring out your ancestry, you'll discover that you are related to pretty nearly everyone on earth.

Suppose, for example, that you want to find out if any of your forebears may have fought in the American Revolution. Suppose, in addition, that you don't know anything about your family tree farther back than your grandfather. Begin figuring—and see what you learn.

One way to do it out would be to see how many ancestors of yours were alive at the time of the Revolution. The law of averages, then, would give you an idea whether any of them took part in it.

So here we go.

You had two parents, four grandparents, eight great-grandparents, 16 in the fourth generation, 32 in the fifth, 64 in the sixth and so on.

256 ANCESTORS IN 1776

Probably it has been about eight generations since the Revolution. On that basis, you had 256 ancestors in 1776. Half of those were men—128. You must admit that the chances are at least one of those 128 was adventurous enough to get into the Revolution. Therefore—if they were then in America—you can reasonably claim that some of your ancestors fought in the Revolutionary War.

Now that you're started, keep on with your figures and see where they lead you.

You get your results by doubling your totals each time you go back one generation. Go back to the 15th generation—say, about the time of Oliver Cromwell's reign in England. In that day you had precisely 32,768 ancestors. Your table looks like this:

- Let 1 represent yourself.
- 2 parents — first generations back.
- 4 grandparents — second generation.
- 8 in the third generation.
- 16 in the fourth.
- 32 in the fifth.
- 64 in the sixth.
- 128 in the seventh.
- 256 in the eighth.
- 512 in the ninth.
- 1,024 in the 10th.
- 2,048 in the 11th.
- 4,096 in the 12th.
- 8,192 in the 13th.
- 16,384 in the 14th.
- 32,768 in the 15th.

Nor is that the whole story. Among those 32,768 ancestors of yours, there must have been some rare scamps. You may be proud of your lineage, but the chances are awfully strong that there are sundry pirates, pickpockets and swindlers in that huge number; there simply must have been, by the law of averages.

IN COLUMBUS' DAY

Suppose you go back still further—45 generations; say, perhaps, about the time of Columbus. Continuing the pyramid, you get figures like these:

- 65,536 in the 16th generation.
- 131,072 in the 17th.
- 262,144 in the 18th.
- 524,288 in the 19th.
- 1,048,576 in the 20th.
- 2,097,152 in the 21st.
- 4,194,304 in the 22d.
- 8,388,608 in the 23d.
- 16,777,216 in the 24th.
- 33,554,432 in the 25th.

That, you must admit, is a good many ancestors. However, 25 generations by no means carries you to the dawn of history. Suppose we go back to the 30th generation. If you'll get your pencil and paper, you'll find that 30 generations back, you had precisely, 1,232,839,824 ancestors.

Those figures are pretty high. Perhaps we hadn't better carry it any further. Billions are hard figures to keep straight.

And there's just one trouble. Thirty generations ago, there were not, in all the world, one billion people living.

But the figures are all right. It's a simple matter of arithmetic. Where's the hitch, anyway?

PARENTS ASKED TO VISIT HIGH SCHOOL

Go-to-school night at the Appleton high school will be held Wednesday, Dec. 5, from 7:35 to 9 o'clock Wednesday, Dec. 5, according to H. H. Hebble, principal of the school. The first and second hour classes of the Thursday morning schedule will be conducted, and consequently school will not start until 10:13 the following morning.

No attempt will be made to provide a program for the parents, as the chief purpose of go-to-school night is to acquaint the parents with the actual classroom work and the methods of teaching.

Recollections Of Appletonians And Others

Comments By an Outsider

By Edward P. Humphrey

A dozen years ago or so Mrs. Humphrey and I made a winter vacation trip to Florida and on the way back spent a couple of weeks at Signal Mountain Inn, on top of Signal Mountain, ten miles from Chattanooga, in sight of Lookout Mountain. We arrived at the inn in the afternoon, and after dinner one of the guests who had looked at the register, came over and spoke to me, saying: "I see you are from Appleton, Wisconsin, and I wonder if you know Walter M. Clifford."

I replied, "but am intimately acquainted with his brothers Beverly and Howard." "I was in the Goshute region many years ago," the guest continued, "under the guidance of a man named Walter Murphy, who lived in Appleton, and on the way back he persuaded me to stop in Appleton and see the first trip of the first electric street car in this country. I remember Appleton very well and the great interest I took in seeing the first car go down the street propelled by electricity."

This was the beginning of our friendship with J. W. Kilmore and his wife. At that time they spent most of their time traveling about, but for a good many years past have been settled in South Pasadena, so that we see them quite frequently.

Mr. Kilmore, who is approaching eighty years of age, was a pioneer of Chicago, going there in 1850, and spending all his active business life there. He was thrown by fate or providence upon his own resources when but a dozen years of age. As a lad in Chicago he had an attic in a rooming house where Marshall Field and L. Z. Leiter, then clerks in Potter Palmer's store, also had rooms, though their rooms were on a lower floor and much more comfortably accoutred. For a time young Kilmore worked as office boy and general handy man in a photograph gallery across the street from the Potter Palmer store. Ultimately Mr. Kilmore embarked in the merchant tailoring business, which engaged his energies continuously thereafter until he retired some fifteen years ago. In this business he made clothes at one time or another for most of Chicago's prominent men, with many of who he became on intimate terms. As a lad he managed to gain entrance to the convention in which Abraham Lincoln was first nominated for president, and had the distinction of feeling Lincoln's hand placed upon his head, when with a boy's enthusiasm that would not be denied, he had crowded up close to the side of the great man, who was destined to become the savior of his country.

This reminds me, to express for a moment of a story told by a friend, a woman, one of the recurring guests at the Wissahickon Inn in Redlands each winter, mother of Mrs. Albert W. Atwood, whose husband is a frequent contributor to the Saturday Evening Post. The incident occurred in 1865 in an eastern city, when the woman was a little girl, perhaps five or six years of age. While playing with a number of older girls, another girl ran up crying: "Lincoln's assassinated! Lincoln's assassinated!" an announcement that was received by all the listeners except our friend with expressions of liveliest horror. Not comprehending what the word "assassinated" meant, piqued at being left out of the general understanding and with a child's effort to appear sophisticated, she tossed her head in the air and exclaimed: "If Lincoln's 'assassinated,' I'm just glad of it, so there!"

I am flattered that Mr. Kilmore has seemed to enjoy reading the articles in the Post-Crescent upon "Appletonians and Others," even though the subjects were strangers to him, and his long, eventful life and wide acquaintance frequently bring to his mind men he has known who in many respects resemble the Appleton men written about, all of which goes to confirm the statement sometimes made that humans generally may be gathered into a few definite classes, much alike in physical features and mental characteristics. He chuckled when he read the article about Howard Wood and Col. Frankbach, and delivered himself as follows: "Your reference to 'The Lady or the Tiger' awakened a lot of memories. I went east in 1870 and took along some samples of walnut oval picture frames which the firm I was with was manufacturing and selling in small quantities through the west. I thought I would try selling some of them in the east. The partners in the firm laughed at me, as at that time nothing made in Chicago, was sold east of the Indiana state line. I went to Detroit, Cleveland, Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, and sold enough frames to keep the firm busy for eleven months. I was promised a partnership interest for the next year, but like Howard Wood I never got it and had to change employers.

"In Col. Frankbach you described the personality of Potter Palmer. From 1852 to 1864 I was with the Hessler photographic studio on Lake street, across the street from Potter Palmer's store, between Dearborn and Clark, and saw much of Mr. Palmer in action. Later he gave an interest in the drygoods store to L. Z. Leiter and Marshall Field, and diverted most of his own energies to the real estate business, and later the hotel business. I never saw him anything but calm, never excited, yet after the fire, he was 'broken,' with shelves of judgments piled up against him. But he had a broad outlook. He filled in what was supposed to be worthless land from Chicago Avenue, the old water works, to Lincoln Park, and made it the finest residence district in Chicago. He also showed his good judgment in picking his life partner and by so doing left two clean, fine boys to carry on."

Anent what was said in one of the "Recollections" about the late John Stevens as a fisherman, Mr. Kilmore reminisced as follows: "I used to fish a good deal in northern Wisconsin and Michigan, and my record musky weighed 91 pounds and came from Pike Lake, at the head of the Flambeau river. My friend Cavanaugh, general freight agent of the Wisconsin Central railway at that time, had Mr. Colby's private car, and took up the first party of city men who ever fished in Pike Lake. In Shelter Bay at the east end of Isle Royale in Lake Superior I have seen with a water-glass muskies lying in the rushes all nosed one way like catfish in stalls. I used to fish in Canada for land-locked salmon, such as Mr. Stevens caught in Wisconsin lakes. The secret of catching them is to use a fine copper wire for a line. An ordinary fishing line will not sink deep enough for them. If you put about three hundred feet of fine copper wire on a reel and let out about two hundred feet as the boat is rowed slowly, you will get the bait down to the deep, cold water here these fishes lie during the summer season. An 18-pounder is my record on land-locked salmon, though I heard of one weighing 100 pounds being taken on the Nipigon river."

When I called on him one day not long ago, Mr. Kilmore, who had been turning over some old letter files, showed me a couple of letters he received nearly forty years ago from "Mike" Clifford, who used to run a clothing store in Appleton in the old "Opera house block," where the First National Bank building now stands. Mr. Kilmore was one of the members of a party taken north on a fishing trip by President Colby of the Wisconsin Central. They stopped at Stevens Point, which was the home of Mr. Clifford before he came to Appleton, as Mr. Colby wanted some sort of favor from Mr. Clifford, in return for which, vicariously, Mr. Kilmore was able to do a favor for Mr. Clifford. Clifford had a son twenty years of age, who wanted to learn the tailoring business, especially the "cutting" part of it, and that Mr. Kilmore was able to give him a proper start along this line is evidenced by the following letter: "Appleton, Wis., March 11, 1891. Mr. J. W. Kilmore, Chicago, My dear friend: Allow me to return to you my sincere thanks for the kindness shown my son, W. S. Clifford, in regard to the trade which he is now learning. He tells me that you were very kind to him, and lost some time with him getting him started, which is duly appreciated by him and also by your humble servant. Should the occasion ever present itself I will surely reciprocate. Again thanking you very much, I remain Your friend on call, M. Clifford."

Something that was said in one of the earlier "Recollections" about pre-Volstead days and practices in Appleton, recalled to Mr. Kilmore the story of a justice of the peace in Chicago whom he knew back in the '60's. This justice's office was located in a small two-story, frame building on Randolph street, opposite the court house, where the Sherman House now stands. At that time it was about three doors west of the old Sherman House. As Chicago then had no police courts, all drunk-and-disorderly cases and the like, were brought before the justice of the peace. There was a saloon on the first floor and the justice had a hole cut in the floor with a cigar box as a dumb waiter. When he needed stimulant he pounded on the floor with his heel and hollered down for what he wanted. One morning "Gashouse Mary" was being boosted up the stairs by four policemen—four policemen being required—not only on account of her own weight which was very considerable, but because she had a load carried over from the night before. When the justice heard them bursting up through the passage, he gave his voice that deep, strong sound "Huh!" "Like your friend Gabe Bouck," stamped his heel on the floor and shouted down the dumb waiter: "The hardest case that ever came up these stairs—TWO hot whiskey for the court!"

COUNTY BOARD GIVES PHEASANTS TO STATE

Milwaukee—(AP)—A gift of between 150 and 200 ring-necked pheasants has been made by the Milwaukee-co board to the Wisconsin Conservation commission. The commission says the gifts will help materially in increasing the number of birds kept at the body's game farm for breeding purposes.

With the present gift, the commission has more than 600 birds at the game farm in Peninsula Park, Door county. They will be used to produce eggs next spring. The commission expects to start next year in its program of liberating about 8,000 birds a year.

The birds given by the Milwaukee county board were shipped by boat from Milwaukee to Sturgeon Bay, from where they were transferred by truck to the game farm.

"Don't Get So Tired"

Mrs. CARMEL, PA.—"After my second baby was born I had to work too hard and be on my feet too soon because my husband was ill. After his death I was in such a weakened and run-down condition that nothing seemed to help me. I am starting the fourth bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and feel a great deal better. I am much stronger and don't get so tired out when I wash or work hard. I do house-keeping and dressmaking and I highly recommend the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Gertrude Butts, 414 S. Market St., Mt. ## FOREIGN POLICY OF U. S. DIVIDED INTO FOUR PARTS

Division Includes Europe, Far East, Panama Canal, Latin America

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington — The United States has four main fields of foreign policy: Europe, the Far East, the Panama Canal and its approaches and Latin America.

The Far Eastern policy has been the same for many years and is concerned with China and Japan. We want China to be strong, independent and friendly to us. We don't want China divided into spheres of influence by European nations. We want to nourish every opportunity for American trade expansion in Asia.

Similarly our policy has been one of friendliness toward Japan. The theory is that we have most to gain by that and much to lose in any strong alliance between Japan and Britain. Japan has come to see that this is also her best bet, and meanwhile has gone ahead with her penetration of Manchuria unhindered.

The Panama Canal policy is primarily one of national defense. That was the driving motive in the canal's construction and that is our main concern in the Caribbean today. We demand order in Central American and Caribbean countries; we are determined to safeguard all approaches to the canal and we are thinking seriously of digging another canal through Nicaragua. These facts may not fully explain our last intervention in Nicaragua, but they were what actuated the government at that time.

It might also be said that there is a separate Mexican policy, but one so kaleidoscopic that it is hard to describe it. One day we get to worrying about Bolshevik propaganda and oil and brown Mexico; next day we remember to worry about trade expansion and American loans and begin to struggle up to her. Now and then we intervene for special reasons. The Villa expedition of 1918, for instance, served the double purpose of scaring the pro-German Mexican leaders and giving Pershing and other officers some practice for the World War.

Today, however, a shift in our European policy and an intensification of our Latin-American policy are occupying the attention of the world's diplomats. We have virtually turned our back on Europe and at the same time begun actually to shout our hymn of love for South America with confident assurance that she will tumble pell-mell into our arms.

Far and away the most important angle of our European policy is as to Great Britain. France enters into the picture only by virtue of her indebtedness to us and her recent alliance with England. It is Britain who has the only navy to match ours; Britain who is our main competitor for markets and raw materials over the world.

The history of our relations with her has been a series of great or minor clashes, always followed by periods of better feeling and understanding. A few years ago it appeared that Britain and the United States were going to be united definitely in a silent bond of brotherhood; statesmen on both sides thought that was the best way out. Today we probably are further estranged from England than at any time since the Venezuelan boundary dispute.

Announcement of Hoover's South American trip, Coolidge's hard-boiled Armistice day speech and the navy's announcement of a policy of naval equality, coming one right after another, meant that we were saving our favors and friendly gestures for this hemisphere and that if the old world wanted any more it would have to come begging for them on our terms.

Our most important national interests, economic, military and political, have inspired all this. Maintenance and expansion of American prosperity, which Hoover discussed so much in the presidential campaign, has become dependent on our export trade. The hope of our export trade is in Latin America and Asia. The government has finally come to these conclusions simultaneously:

1—There is no nourishment in sending American loans to European industrial concerns and combinations to help them fight us for markets.

2—As long as European governments are unwilling to meet us half way on the disarmament issue, the wisest policy is to hold back loans which would be used for their further armament and to build our naval armaments up to a point approaching equality.

It all boils down to a policy of promoting a vast sales campaign for friendship and trade where we are most likely to get them and refusing to cater any longer to those who are disposed to give us neither.

268 Women Tried This Simplified Recipe

Not One Failed to Get Perfect Results!

Mixing Time, this gorgeous MARBLE CAKE, 11 minutes!

Mrs. Sidney Stokes is admiring her first baking with "Kitchen-tested" Flour.

This Week's Prize "Kitchen-tested" Recipe

Whether you are a "lucky" baker or not, an inexperienced housewife or a bride, try this recipe. It's a new development in home baking, a simplified way that thousands are enjoying. Nearly every woman who tries it has perfect results, first time.

By the development of an utterly new type of flour—Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" Flour—baking has been simplified amazingly for housewives. And the cause of most baking disappointments banished!

"Kitchen-tested" means that every batch of this flour has been tested in a kitchen, at the mill, in an oven just like yours, before it goes to you. Tested for uniformity of result with home recipes.

That means a flour that acts the same way EVERY TIME with your recipe. Most flour varies greatly. Different sacks of other brands often acting, as you know, entirely different in your oven. That's where over 50% of all baking disappointments come in.

Now special "Kitchen-tested" Recipes, too, have been developed. The recipe thus fits the flour exactly. And the flour fits the recipe exactly. So you get EXACT results every time.

To use this combination is a revelation in easier, simpler baking. But you must use "Kitchen-tested" flour. Ask your grocer for Gold Medal.

"Kitchen-tested" Flour. The words "Kitchen-tested" are on every sack. Get that brand of flour before you try this recipe.

RECIPE.... Marble Cake

1/4 cup shortening, 2 cups sugar, 4 eggs, 1/2 cup GOLD MEDAL "KITCHEN-TESTED" FLOUR, 3 tsp. baking powder, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1 1/2 cups liquid, 2 tsp. vanilla, 1/4 cup chocolate, 1/4 cup soda.

METHOD
1. Cream shortening and sugar gradually and cream well. 2. Add unbeaten egg whites one at a time and beat into mixture. 3. Sift flour once before measuring. 4. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt together and add alternately with liquid. 5. Add vanilla. 6. Add soda to melted chocolate. Divide batter in two parts, adding chocolate mixture to one of the parts. 7. Drop batter by teaspoonful into floured and greased cake tin alternating a spoonful of white batter with a spoonful of chocolate batter until all is used. 8. Bake.

TEMPERATURE: 350° F., moderate oven.
SIZE OF PAN: One large pan 13x6x2 1/2 inches or 2 small pans 4x8 inches.
AMOUNT: 24 servings.

COUNTY ORGANIZES FOR HOME TALENT PLAY TOURNAMENT

Final Plans for Contest Will Be Completed Here on December 12

Seven Parent Teacher associations and two Grange societies sent representatives to a meeting at the courthouse Wednesday afternoon to plan for the Home Talent play tournament, sponsored by the extension division of the state university and the state agricultural department, were discussed.

Henry H. Theil, a representative of the Parent-Teacher association of the Elm Tree rural school, route 1, Appleton, was elected chairman of the county organization. The representatives agreed to hold another meeting Dec. 12 when final plans for the county tournament will be held. The group decided that organizations entering the contest must file the names of the players and the name of the play with the county chairman on or before Dec. 10. A date will be set at the meeting on Dec. 12 for the county contest. A group which will represent the county will take part in a district contest and the winner of the district contest will go to Madison to take part in the state contest there next February.

D. E. Lindstrom, of the state college of agriculture, gave a short address at the meeting in which he explained that the purpose of the contest was to afford a means of discovering and training home talent. He said that the competition makes cooperation possible between people living in mutual interests. He pointed out that communities get valuable advertising as a result of the competition and also that the people taking part are benefited.

Various county groups which take part in the county contest have been instructed to name one of their members as a representative to act on the county committee to change arrangements. This committee will set the date for the county contest.

Following is a list of the groups represented at the meeting Wednesday and the names of the representatives: Medina P. T. A., Nina Hopkins and Mrs. Stanley Smith; North Osborn P. T. A., Dorothy Smith and Mrs. Edwin Melke; Sunny Corner P. T. A., Mrs. E. J. Smith; Sunny Corner's Grange, Mrs. H. E. Krueger; Elm Tree P. T. A., Henry H. Theil; Stephensville Grange, W. P. McLaughlin; Badger P. T. A., H. C. Kruecker; Woodlawn P. T. A., Mrs. J. Baum; Mrs. Ed Miller, Mrs. Rosa Haferbeck and H. Haferbeck; Golden Hill P. T. A., Mr. and Mrs. Ray Auson.

SNOW IS WELCOME SIGHT TO HUNTERS

White Blanket Simplifies Task of Tracking Deer Through Woods

The snow storm throughout the state has been a boon to many Wisconsin residents but it is a good sight to the many sportsmen trekking north in search of deer. And to the deer, the snow is of course bad news for the thousands of hunters now can easily track the nimble buck.

The 1928 season will open at sunrise Saturday morning when guns will blaze in most every swamp and woods in the northern part of the state. The season lasts for 10 days. Last year was a closed season and as a result many more hunters are going north this fall.

Most Appleton hunters left Thursday and Friday many driving despite the chance of getting snowbound, while a few are reported to have gone on tracks. Other contingents are expected to leave Saturday and try their luck Sunday.

One buck for each hunter or hunters is the quota prescribed by law. Deer are more plentiful this year than for several seasons, according to reports from Ashland, Florence, Vilas and other northern counties.

Due to the prevalence of game and the unusual number of hunters, extraordinary efforts to obtain rigid enforcement of the game laws have been made by the state conservation department.

Game wardens from all sections have been concentrated in the deer area. Laws require that no dogs be used to drive the deer into the paths of the hunters, that no salt be placed at watering places, and that no lights be exposed.

PUMP EVENS FLOW OF GAS IN CITY

Little Difficulty Is Experienced, Although Consumption Is High

If four gas stove worked better Thursday and you were able to prepare your turkey, goose, duck or chicken in less time than formerly, you have the new "Booster" pump at the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company's gas plant to thank. It is believed that more gas was used Thursday than on any other occasion for the past seven or eight years, but little difficulty was experienced, according to employees at the gas plant.

The new pump is especially used for emergency cases when the amount of gas consumption is greatly increased. It was put to use for the first time Thursday morning. Very few complaints were received from people in this city, it was reported at the plant.

In other years it was impossible to remedy the situation, because people had most of their burners ignited and were drawing the maximum amount of gas. As a result, the flame was weak and it took more time to prepare the Thanksgiving day feast.

80-ACRE FARM BRINGS $4,200 AT AUCTION

An 80-acre farm in the town of Greenville was sold to Theodore Looze for $4,200 by Sheriff Otto Zuehlke at a public auction at the courthouse Friday morning. The sale was held to satisfy a mortgage foreclosure judgment against the property. Clarence Mauser held the mortgage and the property was formerly owned by Theodore Looze, et al.

SEEK 2 MORE MEN IN SIEGEL CASE, RUMOR INDICATES

Two Kenosha Men Are Implicated by Garage Man in Confession

Although Waupaca officials refuse to discuss new developments in the case, it is indicated that they have issued orders for the arrest of Ralph Wyman, former New London man, and Henry Evans, Kenosha, who Siegel stole the cars which he later disposed of through his garage in New London.

The pair was said to have been implicated in a confession by Siegel to the chief of police at New London on Tuesday. Sheriff J. O. Hansen Friday morning declined to discuss the affair and refused to say whether warrants were out for Evans and Wyman. He admitted that he believed publicity on the affair would give the pair a chance to escape. The district attorney was out of the city and attendants at his office refused to say whether warrants had been issued.

Siegel, sentenced to serve from four to eight years in state prison at Waupaca, is alleged to have confessed to Police Chief Luck at New London that Wyman actually stole the automobiles and that Evans was his aide.

Wyman, it was rumored at Waupaca, has been under suspicion during and since Siegel's trial. The sheriff's office had no direct evidence against him, however, and no arrest was made. Wyman, who is well known in New London, served as a witness in the trial and drew witness fees. Evans is unknown in New London.

In his confession Siegel indicated E. H. Vincent, one of his salesmen, who was found guilty with Siegel. He did not mention Earl Meating, however, who also was declared guilty with Vincent and Siegel. Vincent and Meating were granted stays of sentence until Jan. 28 when their attorneys admitted guilt and no action proving their innocence in the case.

Siegel and the two salesmen were arrested last August following an investigation into Siegel's garage business.

DEATHS

MISS LISETTA HOECKER
Funeral services for Miss Lisetta Hoecker, 46, who died at her home at Hortonville Wednesday evening, will be conducted by the Rev. G. E. ## City Is Blanketed With Three Inches Of Snow

Although considerable snow piled up in this vicinity Monday morning, communication and traffic was not seriously impaired. Some trains were a few minutes late and it was necessary for busses to slow up because of the slippery condition of the highways. Approximately three inches of snow fell here from 5 to 10 o'clock Monday morning, according to George Allanson, Menasha lock tender and official weather venter for this district.

Heavier snow was reported in the northern sections of Wisconsin.

Badger Briefs

Rhinelanders—(P)—When Frank Kimbark, McNaughton, attempted to mail a package containing venison to a friend in Illinois, conservation wardens served a court order on the postmaster compelling him to turn over the package to the district attorney. In court, Kimbark pleaded guilty to the illegal transportation of venison and was fined $50 and costs.

Three Are Injured In Two Accidents
Youth Loses Part of Arm from Gun Wound—Couple Hurt When Car Tips

Three persons were injured Thursday and Friday in hunting and automobile accidents in this vicinity. Although accidentally shot in the arm so severely that amputation of the arm just below the elbow was necessary, Willard Fuhrman, 15, of Appleton, was not hurt in the accident. He was hunting with his own gun as he was crawling under a fence in the town of Black Creek. The boy, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fuhrman, formerly of Appleton, was hunting rabbits Thursday afternoon. The trigger of his gun became caught in either the fence or the grass as he was going under a fence, and the charge exploded, hitting his right arm near the wrist. He was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. McKew of Milwaukee were injured Friday morning when their car turned over in a ditch just east of McCarthy's corners, three miles north of Kaukauna. The occupants were caught inside the car, which landed on its side after rolling over twice, but finally succeeded in extricating themselves. Both Mr. and Mrs. McKew received severe body bruises, and Mrs. McKew had a painful head injury. The McKews who were on their way home after spending Thanksgiving day in Green Bay, received medical attention in Appleton and continued on their journey to Milwaukee.

The condition of W. C. Kluge, Black Creek, whose head was crushed when a car fell upon it last Monday afternoon, is very satisfactory, according to his physician, and unless infection sets in within the next day or so he will be out of danger. Mr. Kluge, who is in St. Elizabeth hospital, was repairing a car at the Rappin and Bergsaken garage at Black Creek when the accident happened.

OFFER COURSES IN VISUAL EDUCATION

Unlimited Service, Including Motion Pictures, Available at U. W.

Madison—(P)—Nearly 700 courses in visual education are on tap at the University of Wisconsin, according to J. E. Hansen, assistant chief of the bureau.

Mr. Hansen points out that persons can obtain unlimited service for $12 a year and receive lantern slide sets and motion pictures on all types of subjects including nature study, literature, geography, religion, art, and psychology. The bureau is open to an educational or civic organization.

Started in 1913, the bureau has expanded so that today it employs seven full time workers, who run the supply service, three student part-time helpers, and three persons in charge of the work. Prof. W. H. Dudley, now on a leave of absence, is head of the bureau, and is assisted by Mr. Hansen and Miss Maria E. York.

Most of the slide material has been collected at the university. The bureau, according to Mr. Hansen, stands ready to get up a slide set on any desired subject. This work is done by Miss York.

"Visual instruction is a vital force in modern education," Mr. Hansen says, and explains that numerous schools in Wisconsin are members of the service bureau and use slide sets in classroom work.

CONGRESS AGAIN FACES 2 BUGABOOS AT NEXT SESSION

Farm Relief and Muscle Shoals Disposition Must Be Considered

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Washington—(P)—Two old bugaboos—farm relief and Muscle Shoals disposition—threaten again to haunt the seventieth Congress when it reconvenes December 3. In its other routine three-months' concluding session.

However, the senate, at least, will have plenty to occupy its attention while leaders are worrying about what to do with farm relief and the vetoed Muscle Shoals measure. The Boulder Canyon Dam and the $274,000,000 naval building measures are on its calendar of business and the Kellogg treaty renouncing war is awaiting consideration.

And prior consideration, as usual, is allotted to the regular appropriation bills providing the money for meeting government expenses during the approaching year. This will keep the house of representatives busy until well after Christmas and then demand attention in the senate.

So with this business on hand and the promise of the new administration to call the recently elected congress into extra session next spring to take up farm relief, if necessary, leaders believe they have the three months' session already well filled.

The senate takes up where it left off last spring with the Swing-Johnson bill to construct a dam in the Colorado river at Boulder Canyon up for consideration. Arizona's senators, supported by Utah's, successfully talked to death any chance for a vote on the bill last session.

A filibuster throughout the entire approaching session seems unlikely to succeed, however and votes on both this bill and the naval construction measure paving the way for enactment of both into law, are possibilities. The house already has approved both proposals.

Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee is ready to put the Kellogg peace pact before his committee as soon as President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg forward it to the senate for ratification, which is necessary to bind this government to the agreement.

There also is the usual congestion of controversial legislation outside the realm of politics cluttering up the committee calendars of both the house and the senate and there always is the possibility that some of this may be moulded into shape for consideration on the floors.

Among the bills demanding considerable committee attention is the measure of Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Labor of Minnesota, to ban injunctions in the cases of labor disputes; measures looking to the consolidation of railroads; and bills introduced late last session resulting from long senate inquiry after the suspension of operations in the bituminous coal field.

Nor is the senate without its list of investigations, pending and proposed. Investigators of the public lands committee have been busy all summer preparing a report on the inquiry ordered into the leases on the Salt Creek oil fields in Wyoming. Chairman Norris is ready to call the committee into action on this when congress gets under way.

There is a senate committee busy also concluding an investigation into federal patronage in the south and both the senate and the house have committees looking into expenditures in the recent national campaign.

Senator McNary of Oregon, chairman of the agriculture committee, and the co-author of the McNary-Haugen bill, is going to make a fight for solution of the agricultural problem at the short session. His bill will be among the first introduced and it is a bill on which he expects to have administration endorsement.

Just what is the status of the Muscle Shoals bill which President Coolidge failed to approve or disapprove is one of the legislative problems of the day.

The administration contends that the president in failing to affirm his

LONDON'S NEW THEATRE REPLACES FAMOUS CAFE

London—(P)—London's newest theatre will replace a historic restaurant, the Old Shippe, known to generations of visiting Americans.

The Old Shippe, established in the heart of Whitehall in 1650, has had many famous patrons, Nelson, whose monument now marks Trafalgar Square, used to call there. Other associations were not so pleasant, for Charles Cross in the early days of the old restaurant building held a pillory which was one of the most notorious in London.

In 1911, after a certain Japhet Crookes had been placed in the pillory and his ears had been severed by the common hangman, he was taken to the Shippe with the usual surgeon in attendance.

The new theatre will be called the Whitehall because of its location. With its freedom from traffic congestion the playhouse will have a unique position in London. Plans call for a miniature theatre de luxe seating 750 people, and for a full-sized stage.

With the unobstructed Mall just on the other side of the Admiralty Arch, Whitehall itself and the broad embankments along the Thames, patrons will be able to arrive and depart from the theatre in their automobiles.

Markets

ENTHUSIASM STILL CONTROLS MARKET

Bulls Display Another Wild Outburst of Strength on New York Exchange

New York—(P)—Suspension of stock trading over the Thanksgiving day holiday failed to dampen bullish enthusiasm because the market opened Friday with another wild outburst of strength. National Power, which had been on a block of 25,000 shares at 45½ up to 46½, Consolidated Gas with a block of 15,000 shares at 51½ up to 52½, and a new high record for the year, Radio-Keith-Albee, which was admitted to trading at 115½, up from 115, were the curb market, opened with a block of 25,000 shares at 149.

Up Operators for the advance apparently were little concerned with bankers' predictions of relatively high stock prices after the turn of the year. The advance action of the market also indicated no unreasonableness over the brokers' loan statement which was widely spread predictions last Wednesday of a huge increase in borrowings.

Wall Street heard Friday that several more common stock houses were planning to put more stringent margin requirements into effect beginning Saturday. A number of the houses, however, require minimum margins ranging from 30 to 50 percent depending upon the price of the stock.

Motor Products ran up 8½ points in the early trading and Wright Aeronautical, 6½. International Electric, Anaconda, Allied Chemical, Brooklyn Union Gas and General Electric all advanced 1½ to 2 points to 5 points the last time, crossing 200 for the first time. Wheat exchanges opened easier with sterling cables quoted around $185 3/16.

CABINET LINEUP MAY BE SET WHEN HOOVER RETURNS

President-elect Ponders
Problem as Battle Ship
Carries Him on Tour

Washington — History is being made this year in national politics and in more ways than one. The cabinet is being chosen several thousand miles away from Washington, on foreign seas and in foreign countries. Mr. Hoover took this big problem with him when he departed on his good-will tour on the battleship Maryland and is expected to announce his selections when he returns to the United States, via Honolulu, about Christmas.

Although Washington is several thousand miles from the scene of action, it has—or, at least, it thinks it has—a pretty good idea of most of those who will make up the Hoover cabinet.

With Secretary of State Kellogg due to retire and Senator Borah no longer being considered for the post, it seems almost certain that Hoover will choose Henry P. Fletcher for this corner in the cabinet. Fletcher, ambassador to Italy, is now accompanying Hoover on his Latin-American tour as the president-elect's personal representative.

Experience seems to qualify Fletcher for the important position that deals with foreign affairs. A veteran in the diplomatic service, he was for five years minister to Chile (1909-14), and for four years ambassador to Mexico (1916-1920). During the first year of the Harding administration he was under-secretary of state. Next he went to Belgium and then to Italy as ambassador.

Both President Coolidge and President Harding have regarded Fletcher as an expert on international affairs. In 1923 Harding called him home for an important conference, and last winter Coolidge summoned him back to attend the Pan-American congress. He is thoroughly familiar with conditions in Europe and South America through long residence on both continents. In addition, he has three brothers, who own large mines in Nicaragua.

Colonel W. J. Donovan of Buffalo, N. Y., World War hero and present assistant attorney general, is believed to be Hoover's choice for attorney general. Donovan visited Hoover at the latter's Palo Alto home shortly before he sailed, making the trip from the Atlantic coast to California in a plane. He is an Irishman and a Catholic.

Treasury Secretary Andrew Mellon can retain his post if he wants it, according to the dopesters. There is no love lost between Mellon and Hoover, but reports say that the president-elect wouldn't care to boot him out. Further, Uncle Andy is said to like the job and to be perfectly content to remain.

Dr. Julius Klein, present assistant secretary of commerce and one of the world's greatest experts on trade relations, and Julius Barnes, Chicago, seem in the lead for the commerce post, with the edge apparently favoring Klein. Hoover, during his tenure there, leaned heavily on Klein on questions of foreign trade, opening many new outlets for American-made goods.

James W. Good, one of Hoover's campaign managers, seems to be in line for postmaster-general, the post that controls many of the political plums, with which campaign debts have been paid in the past. Ray Lyman Wilbur of Stanford University, a brother of Navy Secretary Curtis D. Wilbur, is being mentioned strongly as the latter's successor.

Secretary of Agriculture Jardine is definitely out of the running. His health is broken and he wants a rest. Several men have been mentioned as possible successors, but none of those so far brought to light appear very likely. There is rumor that Hoover will choose a mid-western farm leader whose name has not thus far been mentioned in connection with the job.

As for the War Department and the Interior Department—well, one man's guess is as good as another's.

EARLY CONFAB ON NAVIES IS FORECAST

construction and limit further building than to carry out the idea of an enlarged navy.

The gesture made by Mr. Britten is taken to mean here that congress is as anxious as the president to arrive at some understanding about competitive armaments and that the sentiment in the British parliament for the suppression of naval competition is fully understood on this side.

BREAK OF PROPRIETIES

There has been some discussion here of suggestions that Mr. Britten violated the proprieties in addressing the premier of Great Britain direct and some officials pointed to the Logan act which forbids correspondence with foreign governments without permission of the "government." The question is whether this refers to private citizens outside the government only or to all persons even in the government who are not connected with the department of state. In later years there have been many personal communications between members of the legislative body and foreign governments, including executives. If Mr. Britten had represented that he was acting for the American government or for the executive branch his action would have been viewed as coming within the meaning of the Logan act. But his step is merely to bring about an informal parley. Mr. Borah took the same action and was not reproached for it last year at which time it was forecast that the custom would be direct communication between parliamentary bodies, a novelty that may yet revolutionize the formal diplomacy of past history.

In this connection members of congress have from time to time been visiting abroad and conferring with cabinet officers and diplomats of other governments discussing international policies. The question is whether doing the same thing by letter is indiscreet if not illegal.

AIR MAIL BEGINS TO SWELL LOCAL POSTAL BUSINESS

Hundreds of letters are pouring into the Appleton postoffice with the request that they be sent from the city on the first air mail plane to leave here Saturday, Dec. 15.

In many instances the senders request the autograph of the postmaster and F. F. Wettengel, the acting postmaster, is busy getting these letters ready for the first trip. Mr. Wettengel estimates that a record amount of mail will be sent from Appleton on the first day.

Many local people are sending letters to the office here to be carried on the first air mail trip. Mr. Wettengel has requested that such letters be in as early as possible because the mail for the first trip will be exceedingly heavy and postal officials here hope to get as much of it ready before that day as possible.

Mr. Wettengel said some of the senders ask that their letters be placed on the north bound and some on the south bound planes. He urges local people to specify which way they want their mail to go.

LIFE ON MARYLAND UNCHANGED DESPITE HOOVER'S PRESENCE

President-elect and Wife
Have Admiral's Suite on Battleship

Washington—(P)—Life aboard the battleship Maryland, which is bearing President-elect and Mrs. Hoover southward, is going on with the same precision and routine as though they were not aboard.

Reveille at five o'clock, followed by the constant drills and work on the upkeep of the ship, goes ahead as the Maryland, the stars and stripes flying at her bow and her mighty 16 inch guns gleaming, plows along.

There is much for Mr. and Mrs. Hoover to see whenever they choose to desert the seclusion of the admiral's suite, which has been placed at their disposal. It is their privilege to go from the engine room to the fire control top from which they may see a panorama of sea and sky, and a view of the crew below on the spotlessly scoured decks going through drill or setting up exercises.

The Maryland is one of the newest and finest ships of the fleet. She was built in 1920, weighs 22,600 tons, is 624 feet long, has a beam of 97 feet, three and one-half inches and her best recent speed is 21 knots. She carries eight 16 inch guns of a new model successfully proved at Indian Head in 1917, besides a number of smaller guns, including 12 five-inch broadside and

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug. Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

four six-pounder saluting guns, two on each side.

The four turrets in which the big guns are carried are maneuvered with electric hoists. When the battleship bearing the president-elect touches at any port recognized by the United States as a sovereignty there is a salute of 21 guns. Whenever a vessel is sighted the Maryland displays her colors. The American flag flies from her bow from sunrise to sunset.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoover are served the regular admiral's mess customarily when an admiral is aboard. The ward room mess where the ensigns eat accommodates the other members of the Hoover party.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoover have their own special cook, steward and mess boys. A big cold storage plant provides the same food they would get on land augmented from the several months' supplies aboard the ship. Outside the door of Mr. Hoover's room marines, acting as orderlies, are on constant duty.

The crew of the Maryland probably is on the alert for some article used by Mr. Hoover on this voyage to save as a souvenir. When president Roosevelt went to Panama on the battleship Louisiana he went below decks, seized a fire shovel and added his quota to the ship's speed. That shovel still has a place of honor on the Louisiana.

There is life and movement aboard a battleship at every hour of the day and night, with the deck watches changed every four hours and the telegraph, lookout and speed light watches relieved every two hours. Reveille sounds on the Maryland at five o'clock and all members of the crew turn out and lash their hammocks.

Coffee is served at 5:30 and then begins the scrubbing of decks. The crew breakfasts at 7:30 and the officers about the same time. At 8:15 the crew turns to polishing the

"I don't like to be the one that is always cutting down and holding out on these over-enthusiastic state employees who want to have the nicest and most expensive things with which to work, but I guess someone has to take that responsibility."

Mr. Ballard said that after he had turned down one requisition for the desk sets the head of the depart-

75 MILLION DOLLAR PLANT IS IDLE AS POLITICIANS FIGHT

Nitrate Factory at Muscle Shoals Silent and Deserted for 10 Years

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of two articles by Robert Talley, NEA Service writer, describing present conditions at Muscle Shoals as he found them. Today's article tells of the $75,000,000 nitrate plants which have never been used except for a test period.

BY ROBERT TALLEY
Muscle Shoals, Ala. — Eleven years ago, when German submarines were sinking allied ships laden with Chilean nitrate, so essential for the manufacture of explosives and fertilizer, an army of 12,000 workmen toiled like beavers to build the government's $75,000,000 nitrate plants here.

Night and day their hammers rang as three shifts hurried with their task, foot by foot the cotton fields receded as construction crews advanced, inch by inch rose the great factory buildings of Nitrate Plant No. 2 until they spread out over 2,200 acres. They were rushing to build one of the greatest untested plants in the world for the manufacture of explosives in war and the manufacture of fertilizer in peace by means of power supplied by Wilson dam, a mile or so away.

Ten years ago this mighty beehive of industry was completed just as the war ended — and for 10 years now it has stood as a beehive without any bees.

SHROUDED WITH DUST
Within the high steel fence, one of the largest and costliest industrial plants in the world is deserted and silent. Inside, dust lies deep on bar and bolt, not a wheel turns, the great furnaces are dark, all the towering smoke stacks are cold . . . it is like a city of the dead.

So it has been for 10 years, while Congress has tried vainly to decide what shall be done with it. For a decade Congress has debated the question and it seems no nearer a solution now than ever before, though the people of Muscle Shoals area hope that something will be done at the December session.

Nearby is the smaller Nitrate Plant No. 1, covering 1,700 acres, equally deserted, cold and silent.

A guard unlocks the main gate of Nitrate Plant No. 2 and takes you through its 2,200 acres, crowded with big buildings, many of which are more than 1,000 feet long. He is one of the 60 men, including a motorized fire department, that the government keeps on duty there to protect the plant and keep it in stand-by condition. And it has been so kept; if an emergency arose it could begin operations on two weeks' notice.

"This building and its equipment cost $13,500,000," says the guard as he takes a key from his pocket and unlocks the big acid plant, near the end of the chain-like system. "It's one of the most expensive on the reservation."

POUNDS OF NITRATE
From a dust-covered shelf he takes a large glass jar, containing about five pounds of a white substance that looks and feels like damp salt. It is labeled proudly: "Ammonium Nitrate—Produced at U. S. Nitrate Plant No. 2, Muscle Shoals, Ala."

This five-pound jar is all of the finished product that the government has to show for its $75,000,000 investment. The 1800 tons of nitrates that the plant produced in its successful test period upon completion 10 years ago were sold long ago.

Operating at full capacity, the plant could produce 300 tons each 24 hours and, according to claims, vastly reduce the fertilizer bill of the American farmer. But Congress, after 10 years, is still unable to decide on a plan of action.

The people of Florence, Sheffield and Tuscumbia—which circle the great Muscle Shoals plants—care little whether the government operates the nitrate plants itself or leases them to one of the numerous bidders. All they want is to have the plants operated; by whom makes little difference.

The visitor is shown through additional acres of buildings—equipped with long rows of expensive machinery, great electric furnaces that burn carbon electrodes as big as tree trunks, powerful air compressors and lofty elevators and towers. All are still silent, deserted.

Meanwhile, the Muscle Shoals area waits for the great day that it confidently believes will come—though it does not know when. The real estate men, with their subdivisions, have been on the ground for years. Paved streets, with fancy street signs already erected, run through the nearby cotton fields, dotted with the little stakes that mark off the lots. Visions of a great city fan their hopes. Local residents admit that the realty market is now inactive, but say it is by no means near a collapse . . . the feeling of certainty that Muscle Shoals plants will be operated some day, employing thousands of workers, sustains them.

POLITICS IS BLAMED
If you ask the average man on the streets of Florence, Sheffield or Tuscumbia why the great nitrate plants have stood idle for 10 years and why 87 per cent of Wilson dam's available power is permitted to go to waste, he will answer like this:

"Politics, that's all. The Muscle Shoals plants and Wilson dam were built by a Democratic administration and the Republicans don't want it developed. They want the power trust to get Wilson dam and the fertilizer trust to get the nitrate plants. That's why Congress is holding off. Regardless of the accuracy of this explanation, a visitor hears it on every hand in and around Muscle Shoals. The hotel clerks, the druggists, the restaurant men, the bus drivers, the merchants, the local newspaper editors insist that such is the reason. At any rate, a golden torrent now flows to waste every day at Wilson dam and for 10 years a mighty plant that is ready to provide jobs for thousands of men has been a vast industrial graveyard.

Dr. John B. Watson says no one today knows how to raise a child. The doctor should have made an exception—no one knows how to raise a child but those people who haven't any.

Seattle, Wash. —(AP)—The Everett Marine Radio station announced Thursday morning that it had heard an SOS call from a ship, signing YGCM. Marine officers here said the call letters were those of the 7,000 ton Canadian freighter Chief Maquila, plying between Canadian and Oriental ports.

Tony's hands, which had been limp with dismay when Harry Blaine reached for them, suddenly closed convulsively over his. Her voice was no longer gay and mocking as she answered, but tender, persuasive: "Please, Harry, don't put it into words! If you say, 'Tony, will you marry me,' and I have to say, 'Harry, I can't,' it will make it awkward for us to go on being friends, and I need you—honestly! I know I'm talking about sounds like conventional platitudes, but I do want you to be my friend forever and ever, Harry. I value you so. . . . Now—tell me I've jumped to conclusions, that you were going to ask me to go to the Thanksgiving football game with you and that your preamble was wholly concerned with your flat economic situation."

Harry Blaine withdrew his hands slowly, but not before he pressed hers hard, gratefully. "You're a good sport, Tony! . . . And I'll try to be one, too. All right, I was going to ask you to go to the football game, knowing that I have to get my bid in early to avoid the rush." He lied gallantly, and Tony came very near to loving him then. "It's a date!" she cried, winking valiantly at the tears in her eyes. "Let's dance, Harry. You must improve that step of yours—that one where you turn—Come along! Let's bump Cherry Jonson and Alan Boardley, just to show that, as members of the virtuous younger generation, we disapprove of their goings-on. . . . Isn't she beautiful, though?"

"Yeah," Harry Blaine agreed. "She ought to incorporate her beauty and sell stock in it, since she seems to resent her husband's monopoly. Can't blame her much, though, so far as Boardley is concerned. He's really a big man, and I can understand his bowling her over."

When they were seated again, before tea which had become much too strong and required the bringing of a new pot of hot water, Tony returned determinedly to the subject of Crystal. No dog-in-the-manger, Tony.

"Crystal admires your mind so much," she began with careful casualness. "She's awfully clever herself, really. But do you, seriously think of dramatizing Cherry's story?"

"Yes, I'm going to get a play on Broadway if it takes me till I'm 80," Harry Blaine answered. "And at the rate I'm going I'll be at least 79. If you'd really like me to, I'll talk the thing over with Crystal."

"You do like her, don't you, Harry?" Tony persisted hopefully. "She's awfully sweet and sound and a pathetic underdog. Or at least, she was pathetic until recently. She's wondered how much of Crystal's romance with 'Pablo Valencia'—about which Tony was naively credulous—she dared reveal to Harry Blaine."

"I know—some foreign chap that's got her cuckoo," Harry decided the question inelegantly. "That's one reason I haven't been duffing her up more. Don't want to butt in. Besides she raves so—in a mysterious sort of way—about this Pablo bird that it makes me feel uncomfortable."

"Harry, I'm worried about Crystal and this Pablo of hers. I don't think he means our Nell any good. I know he hasn't asked her to marry him. I'd like for you to stand by as a nice, sane, wholesome American foil for this poetic Spanish chap of hers. Between us, maybe we can keep her from doing something she'll everlastingly regret. Will you, Harry?"

TEATIME IN GOTHAM

The Viscountess Thelma Furness, her twin sister, Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt, and little Gloria Vanderbilt. In the inset is Mrs. Frederic Cameron Church, formerly Muriel Vanderbilt.

BY BETSY SCHUYLER

NEW YORK—It's teatime in New York now. But "tea for two" is passé. The thing of the hour that passes as a tea is a huge, elaborate form of entertainment.

Debutantes are the favorite excuse for "teas." Next come returning travelers. Last, but not least, are foreign celebrities who have written books, plays or done something that need lauding.

Everybody dresses up for teas. But not more so, of course, than they do for just about every social event from the early morning grapefruit juice to the night cap. It's a year of stunning teas, certainly. Returning travelers are fashion plates.

Returning from her European trip, Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt sounded the Paris clarion for the fitted silhouette in her stunning black astrakhan coat, fashioned slightly moided, flaring and very long. She wore a cut ribbon and fine belt binding it like a ribbon. And she carried an arm muff—one of those little gadgets that make hands take turns.

Little Gloria, returning with her Mama, was cute as Punch in a white fur coat, Frenchy snort, with leggings and gloves of dooskin and a darling, soft little felt hat atop her pretty hair.

The Viscountess Thelma Furness, Mrs. Vanderbilt's twin, came on the same boat with her sister. She looked extremely young and smart in a sable coat with flaring sleeves and a cushion collar shaped to adapt itself to her brown hat's rim.

TEAS FOR CHARITY
Some of the smartest teas this year are bridge teas—for sweet charity. Among the young debs who made the Union Settlement tea at the Ritz-Carlton a fine success were Mary Mary, Nora Grace, Marka Trusdale and Myra Auchincloss.

Peggy Phillips is one young miss for whom the new soft blues seem made. She wore a little blue frock to the Savoy-Plaza society sale for Hope Farm that made her fair hair gorgeous and set off her eyes and skin to perfection. It was simply made, with an embroidered peplum standing out from her slender hips.

Cynthia Quimby looked tremendously chic at her debut at Pierre's—in a filmy pink chiffon gown. Incidentally all the debs are wearing much longer skirt lengths. These young misses seem to be going in for longer hair and skirts.

Eleanor Fononda Sheesley—guest of honor at several deb teas—knows the value of red to enhance the youthful figure and face. She is especially good in the new rose-red in a dancing frock of crisp moire, with a gorgeous rose trailing its beauty in scintillating crystals up on one side.

Society still has one eye on outdoor things, despite the deluge of social events inside. Sporting clothes this year grow luxurious. Mrs. Frederic Cameron Church, another Vanderbilt, by the way, the former Muriel, uses fur restraint on most of her sport things, but such lovely fun!

At the recent horse show she had one of those new, short fur collars that form just a frame for the face, no more of silky beautiful black lynx. Her hat boasted a little jeweled pin of diamonds, onyx and platinum.

Many reasons are advanced for the practice. First, it makes the "home ties" stronger. Whether the weekly letters get off regularly or not, there is always the laundry bag to let parents know that the sender is all right.

CREAMED VEAL AND OYSTERS ON TOAST

One, and one-half cups diced, cold veal, 1 cup solid oysters, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup milk, 4 triangles toast, parsley, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, salt and paprika.

Put butter into a sauce pan add oysters, cover and cook over a low fire for ten minutes. Add veal and cook until oysters are plump. Sift over flour and stir with a fork until mixture thickens. Bring to the boiling point but do not let boil. Serve on hot triangles of toast arranged on a hot platter and garnish with sprigs of parsley.

The amount of salt required depends largely upon the original seasoning of the veal.

TURKISH GIRLS SENT HOME FOR LONGER SKIRTS

BY ALLEN SUMNER

All the little Turkish girls attending public school in Stamboul were forced to pass in review before their teachers when school opened this fall, and teachers sent home for longer skirts all the little girls whose skirts came above their knees.

This sounds suspiciously like American influence. Skirt length must seem a queer thing, indeed, to a land whose women folks always got along nicely in trousers. And here at home school-maams break out every once in a while sending little girls home from school for wearing knickers. Life does get confusing.

PARASOL OF SPUN SUGAR AT RECEPTION

A Japanese parasol made of spun sugar elicited exclamations from the guests attending the diplomatic reception given by Ambassador and Mme. Debuchi of Japan. The gorgeous parasol was tilted sideways and out of it tumbled little cakes. Large cakes were tied with red and white ribbons of spun sugar. Mme. Debuchi was dressed in a black velvet dress of American cut and design.

WISE MOTHER WILL WATCH CHILD'S SLEEP

ABOUT the question of sleeping and keeping children warm and covered in cold winter nights, there is much to be said.

Like everything else, it is up to our own good judgment, for homes are different, children are different, weather is different—and climate, too, plays a great part.

There exists a certain popular idea about "hardening" children. That is, not allowing them to become accustomed to too many bed-clothes at night and shoving up all the windows regardless of cold and wind.

I've seen parents do this who wouldn't have thought of sleeping in such rooms themselves. I have gone into bedrooms at night where there were sleeping children, when it was all I could do to endure the cold with it was all I could with my street wraps on.

The coldest days and nights of the year are ahead of us now. We face three or four months of our bitterest weather.

A wise mother is going to think this thing out now.

First of all, there should be plenty of warm, light bed-clothes. This is important. Heavy bedclothes are not always warm and they are never healthful. Blankets should be made of wool. Comforts may be cotton-filled, but cotton is likely to lump in places, leaving other parts thin or entirely empty between the chintz covers. The ideal comfort is wool, or fleece filled. Eiderdown is ideal but very expensive.

Nightgowns should be loose and warm. For winter they should be made of soft, fleecy material, such as outing flannel or the flexible knitted fabrics made for the purpose. Ready-made sleeping garments with feet, for children, cannot well be improved upon.

For little babies, sleeping bags are very practical. These can be made of small blankets folded double and sewed up the sides. Snappers can be put at the top, covering the shoulders, allowing enough space for the head. This is better than a draw-string. There should be plenty of room to kick about inside the bag.

The air of the room should be fresh and cold, but never bitter and never blowing on the bed or around the head. Attractive bedrooms screens may be made cheaply by covering a clothes-horse with cretonne. The sides and head of open beds should be lined.

There is something else to be remembered, however. Not all winter nights are bitter. You can't fix up a child for below-zero weather and expect him to be comfortable on a night registering 40 above. Don't keep him too hot on such nights.

This is where the question of judgment comes in. Consider your house, rooms, location of beds and your climate. If you want your child to be well, give special attention to the way he sleeps.

The molded silhouette brings in many new corsets. One little confection in fine brocade satin and rubber, in lavender, has inserts of real cream lace.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THANKSGIVING night the Tinties said, "We're surely glad to go to bed. The turkey we have eaten simply filled us to the top. We're all as tired as we can be." The hunter shouted, "Look at me! Why, I have eaten so much food, I fear that I will drop."

"Come on, now, we are wasting time. Beneath the covers we'd best climb. We all will have a good night's rest and feel tiptop once more." He led the Tinties off to bed, and when their little prayers were said, they dropped deep into slumber and began to loudly snore.

All through the night they slept real sound, and when the next day rolled around, the hunter called them from their beds to eat some oats and cream. As Clowney dressed he laughed and said, "I'm glad that I am out of bed. All through the night I tossed around and had a crazy dream."

"Why, so did I," another cried. "It seemed that I was trying to hide away from some big turkey that was nipping at my nose."

"That's 'cause you ate so much, I guess," the hunter said. "I must confess that I, too, had a dream, and quite a queer one, goodness knows."

By now the morning meal was through. The next thing that the Tinties knew, the hunter took them to the woods, and started looking round. They wondered what 'twas all about. Then suddenly they heard him shout, "Ah, look here, little Tintymites! A buggy I have found."

And, sure enough, 'twas there to see. A buggy, old as it could be. The hunter shouted, "Help me take

PAPA CASHES IN ON MAMA'S ACHIEVEMENT

A girl who once worked as a spooler in a woolen mill sang as a star at New York's Metropolitan Opera House the other night, achieving the goal of thousands upon thousands of American girls who sing. Clara Ja-bo, the girl, explains that her mother, the mother, too, of eight other children, always believed in her and saved for her $9.50 weekly factory wages, churning these out with money flicked from her father's grocery store till the total being saved for singing lessons.

While the girl was studying in Italy the mother died. The other night, with fame and fortune at her feet, Clara was photographed with her father, all beams at his daughter's glory. Mr. Jacobo isn't the first feather to cash in on a mother's achievement.

Better Than Any Diet

AY less attention to what you eat; not one person in a thousand needs diet; or ever really has indigestion. Acidity, flatulence and heartburn are caused by excess stomach acid and food fermentation. Following a hasty lunch, or too hearty a dinner, a little "Pape's Diapepsin" instantly neutralizes excess acidity, stops that fermentation, and soothes and heals the acid-inflamed stomach lining as if by magic. Your recovery is quick, and complete. Make a special point of getting a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapepsin" from your druggist today, and so follow the example of millions all over the world who use "Pape's Diapepsin" to end indigestion and allied stomach troubles.

With "Pape's Diapepsin" handy you can eat and enjoy whatever you fancy without fear of pain or discomfort to follow. At any rate, it's worth the trial, for lots of folks have found a new freedom at the table.

BELIEVE CAMPAIGN TO NAME PRESIDENT COST $15,000,000

Exact Bill of Both Parties Is Not Known, but Estimate Is Cost

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—No one ever knows how much is spent to elect the candidates in a presidential campaign, but there is reason to suppose that the 1928 bill has been higher than $15,000,000.

Difficult at it is to obtain accurate data for comparison, there is little question that this year's campaign costs set a record.

In the first place, the Democrats had a large war, which is most unusual for them. New requirements for expenditure and expansion of the old ones was another reason. Lastly and very importantly, certain powerful organizations which ordinarily keep out of national elections poured money into this one.

The two national committees have spent somewhat around $10,000,000 of the suggested $15,000,000. Such organizations as the Anti-Saloon League, Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals and the Ku Klux Klan made a great and costly effort. The sum total of their political expenditures cannot now be told.

It must further be remembered that the national committee is only the big collecting unit. There are many smaller ones. Money given to and used by the state and local organizations instead of to the national committee is not included in the national committee budgets. All sorts of so-called volunteer organizations raise and handle their own money. In effect, some of them are so many holding companies for the cash.

It is regarded as common knowledge that a great deal of secret contribution and expenditure goes on, ordinarily and for the most part in doubtful states and the largest centers of population.

How is all the money used? Let's confine ourselves to the official budget of the national committees, because that's much easier to trace.

It is too early to learn the respective financial apportionments of the national committees for 1928, but they run pretty well along the lines of previous expenditures by whatever party had money to spend and the only important change is in the amount spent for radio.

The Democrats told this writer their radio bill would reach $650,000. The Republicans owned up to $300,000. The Democrats say the Republican bill must have been far above $350,000.

The frequency of Governor Smith's national speaking speeches made an expensive item for the Democrats. Twenty such speeches at a labor cost of from $7,000 to $10,000 apiece meant an outlay somewhere between $140,000 and $200,000. And the governor was only one of the speakers. Radio stations charge for time from $30 to $600 an hour, dependent on their power, prestige and clientele. The $600 price is set by WEAF.

In 1924, the Republican National Committee spent just over $3,000,000 and reported some of its principal expenditures as follows:

Publicity Bureau $741,278, grants to state committees $655,300, general administration $410,000, Speakers' Bureau $366,443, Congressional Committee $170,000, Senatorial Committee $57,000, Labor Bureau $101,158, Colored Bureau $39,111, Women's Bureau $64,796, Washington headquarters, $43,418 and Foreign Language Bureau $34,000.

Ordinary Speakers' Bureau expenses have been reduced by the radio. On the other hand, both parties made strenuous drives for the women's vote, the colored vote, the foreign extraction vote and the farmer vote.

The most important war is always sent into the precincts just before election day. Political students say that the party with an adequate supply of money to handle the precinct workers almost invariably wins if the other party is poor.

Figures have been cited to show that, with one exception, the biggest campaign fund has always won the presidency. The exception has in 1916. In that year the Republicans spent considerably more money than the Democrats, but the Democrats had more to spend than at any other time since 1892 up to 1928.

Everyone seems to agree that a large part of the campaign money, if not the greater part, is always wasted. Business men have estimated the "waste" at from 25 to 50 per cent.

FATHOMETER ENABLES SPEEDY DEPTH SOUNDING

New York — (AP)—How speed may be maintained by a ship at sea while making as many as four accurate depth soundings, a second was described today by H. J. W. Fay of Boston, vice president of the Submarine Signal Corp.

The device used is the fathometer, which registers the depth by sound echoes. Mr. Fay said that the problem was to cut off the initial sound quickly enough so that it would not interfere with the returning echo. Sound travels in water at a rate of 4,800 feet a second, which at a depth of about 120 feet means that the echo returns to register on the mechanical ear of the fathometer one-tenth of a second after the original sound is produced. An oscillator was devised in the form of a steel plate firmly clamped at the edges, and having dimensions that give the necessary brief tone. A powerful electromagnet actuates the plate.

Mr. Fay quoted a United States Coast and Geodetic Survey report as stating that the instrument takes soundings down to 15,000 feet and probably to greater depth.

As the amount of dust and water vapor in the air decreases, the amount of light diffused from the surfaces of these particles decreases so that darkness increases with elevation.

COACH PICKS
20 TO START
CAGING WORKOtt Has Four Lettermen for Nucleus of High School
Basketball Team

Kaukauna—Twenty boys were picked by coach Elmer Otto for the high school basketball squad which will start regular practice Monday. They are John Nole, Clarence Koch, Jack VanLieshout, Mark VanLieshout, Wallace Mooney Clifford Doering, Ross Farwell, Robert Grogan, J. Smith, Robert Driessen, Robert Main, Robert Vanenahoven, Joseph Tomman, L. Luedtke, W. Hoos and Donald Dix, who are all newcomers, and Captain Karl Fergusson, Marvin Miller, Ralph Sager, Richard Ferguson, who are lettermen of last year.

A few of the good prospects were ineligible and therefore not included with the squad. With the four lettermen of last year, Coach Otto has a good start for a good team. Ferguson can work in at guard or center, Farwell is a flashy forward, and Sager and Miller are steady guards.

Among the newcomers who show much promise are Ross Farwell, who is beginning to show some of the brand of play that his brother Jack displayed with the high school a few years ago, Robert Main, who is forced to abandon the game last year on account of sore feet, and Clifford Doering, who is a freshman.

The season's schedule is long and hard. It includes 10 North-eastern Wisconsin interscholastic league games and three non-league games. The first one will be played at Kaukauna's old time rival, Appleton. Appleton is still smarting under the football defeat given them by the locals and will be primed for revenge.

The schedule:

Dec. 21, Kaukauna at Appleton.
Jan. 4, Kaukauna at Neenah.
Jan. 11, Two Rivers at Kaukauna.
Jan. 18, Kaukauna at Oconto.

Feb. 12, Appleton at Kaukauna.
Feb. 15, Kaukauna at Oconto Falls.
Feb. 22, Kaukauna at West Green Bay.
Mar. 1, Oconto Falls at Kaukauna.
Mar. 8, Kaukauna at West De Pere.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
SYBIL THORNE, lunching with MABEL MOORE, her dearest friend, encounters DOLLY WESTON, who tells her excitedly that she has dreadful news of Valerie. VALERIE WEST is the girl TAD THORNE married and Tad is Sybil's adored brother. Sybil has never liked Valerie and has suspected numerous small affairs.

Now Dolly tells her that Valerie is planning to desert Tad and elope with a man from New Haven. At first Sybil is inclined to let Val go ahead, but Dolly and Mabel convince her that it would break Tad's heart and persuade her to interfere. When Dolly makes a frantic declaration about the way men feel when their wives are unfaithful, Sybil decides to save Tad from whatever pangs Valerie might cause him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXV
Suddenly Sybil became amenable. "All right, Dolly," she said, "I won't tell Tad. And if Jack will drive us, I'll go down to New Haven tonight. Thanks for telling me about it, Dolly. You meant well, I guess. Perhaps it's for the best. I'll see what I can do anyhow. Don't worry about my dragging you into it. And don't tell Dot Faxon's crowd."

Dolly turned wide eyes, on her friends. "Why, Sybil!" she reproached gently. "don't you know you can trust me? I'm awfully fond of Val—really. Wild horses couldn't drag a word out of me. I'll run along now. You and Mrs. Moore will want to be making arrangements. Valerie will thank you some day for this."

Dolly winked back surprising tears and powdered her nose resolutely.

"Goodbye," she said. "You're good kids—both of you."

"My dear," said Mabel when she had gone. "That girl's been in a jam herself. And Tom Weston raised the devil. It's plain as the nose on your face. Did you ever know a girl to give herself away so?"

"I'll bet Tom had her on her knees. It's a wonder to me he ever took her back. But he put the fear of God in her, sure as you live. That's why she wants to save Val. She's been through the mill herself. 'Say, these modern wives! What's become of good old-fashioned morality? They make happiness their god. Then they spit in virtue's face. No wonder they're discontented. The blind fools!'"

Sybil sighed. "It's a dizzy world, Mab. Have you seen Tom Weston lately. Old before his time. Grayer than his father. Lines like scars. Poor Tommy. If a fool woman can hurt a man that much, then Mab, I'm going to bring Val home again."

Coogin's on the Post Road is a nefarious place. Blatant as a circus. In the semi-privacy of crimson booths men and girls made love. Under a red and green striped awning an orchestra made strident noise. And in the little space between the double row of painted booths couples danced and laughed and continued to make love.

Valerie raised her glass and smiled provocatively into the flushed face so close to her own.

"Here's to the movies," she cried, "and fame!"

Their glasses clicked. "To Valerie West," he responded, gravely, "on the billboards!"

She dimpled demurely. "I always did think," she admitted, "that I have a nice, euphonious name—effective, you know, for posters and electric lights. The girls at school used to say it sounded exactly like a movie star's. And I don't mean to brag. But, honestly, I DO take the best pictures. They flatter me outrageously. Everyone says I photograph like Billy Dove."

"My dear," he protested, "you'll make poor Billy look like a wash-out."

"Oh, Darl! You adorable flatterer!" And then, staring speculatively into her empty glass—"You know, Darl, they say blond beauty fades soonest, but I don't think so—do you? I think it all depends on the woman herself."

"Dolly Weston's been running round for years, and she still looks like a china doll. And there's my sister-in-law, Sybil. She is awfully dark, and she's been through a whole lot. But there are times you'd swear she wasn't a day over 20."

"I knew a girl named Sybil once," he interrupted. "Whenever I think of her I take another drink."

He drew a flask from his pocket. "Ginger ale, Sweet?"

"Just a little. Did you love her, Darl?"

"Sure did, honey."

Valerie pouted. "I think you're horrid."

"Well, you asked me."

"But you don't love her any more?"

"I'll say I don't! She walked out on me, Sweet. I'm off her for life. I hope she has lumps in her mashed potatoes."

"Oh, Darl, don't joke. Tell me about her."

"That's all there is, old dear. The righteous Sybil smelled my well-known breath one night, and left me flat. Most outrageous thing ever happened to a man."

He reached for her glass, and his fingers found her wrist. Dull red suffused his face, and his eyes burned with an unholy fire.

"Val, I never wanted a woman so much in all my life!"

"How about Sybil?"

"The devil with Sybil!"

A girl in a crimson skating suit pelted cotton snowballs. A girl in pink tarlatan kicked and whirled. And a girl in a rush skirt shimmed. Waiters hurried about, depositing small bottles of rank liquor under folded napkins.

At eleven o'clock the place was wild and noisy. The girl in the rush skirt kissed bald heads impartially.

The girl in tarlatan was soaking wet and swearing roundly. Someone paged. But we'll drive fast—and perhaps we'll get there first."

Mrs. Ramsey elevated her tweaked eyebrows. Flushed apologetically. But Sybil had flown.

"A little speed, Jack! Step on it!"

Through the frosty night they drove like mad.

"It's like the movies," giggled Mabel, smuggling warmly against her husband's shoulder. "Sib, the virtuous sister, starring. Val's the ingenue lead, and you're the hero, Jackie, rescuing the innocent ingenue from the villain at Googin's."

Presently they were there. Standing in the doorway. Life and love surged by, staggering sometimes as they passed. Youth in youth's arms. And youth in age's embrace. Pretty rouged cheeks against heavy jowls, and the corrugated skin of old dancing fools. Tragic-comedy. The business of having a good time.

Sybil's glance embraced the great dining room.

"There they are—over in the corner booth. Val's facing us, powdering her nose."

Like a flash she had left them. A slim little figure in a plaid sport skirt and beaver jacket, threading her way between the dancers.

"Sybil! What are you doing here? Valerie swayed a bit unsteadily, clutching the table cloth, dragging the china perilously.

"God Almighty!"

The man with her was on his feet. White as death. Facing Sybil across the empty glasses and the stained linen. The words were coming from dry lips, choked from a palmed throat—

"WHERE DID YOU COME FROM?"

DOCTORS TO ESTABLISH HOSPITAL FOR MEETING

Atlanta—(AP)—The huge city auditorium here will be converted into a modern hospital with the newest scientific surgical and medical devices when the international assembly of the Inter-State Post Graduate Medical Association of North America convenes October 15 and 19. A number of patients will be in the temporary hospital during lectures on various diseases from which they suffer.

More than 5,000 physicians are expected for the assembly, which will be in the nature of a post-graduate institute for physicians and surgeons. Noted leaders of the profession from many countries will act as teachers.

Dr. Lowell F. Baker, professor of medicine at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, is president of the association. He, the Mayo brothers, Dr. John R. Deaver of Philadelphia, president elect; Dr. Hugh H. Cabot, Ann Arbor, Mich.; Dr. Edmund L. Gies the American Hospital, Paris, France; Dr. Elliott P. Joslin, Harvard University; Dr. Dean L. Lewis, Johns Hopkins University; Sir Farquhar Buzzard, regius professor of medicine, University of Oxford, England and surgeon to the king and other noted figures in the profession are expected to attend.

Following the assembly, a tour is to be made of Florida and Cuba, leaving Atlanta October 20 and returning October 23.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

"I know that man. That is exactly the way he talks"

SHE was listening to a demonstration of an Atwater Kent 40. Turning the FULL-VISION Dial from one station to another, suddenly she heard the voice of a friend she had not seen for years. She listened eagerly. It was "exactly the way he talked" — the speaking image of the man. "I'll take the set," she said. "This radio tells the truth."

Few of us know people who are broad-casting. But anyone can convince himself that Atwater Kent receivers and speakers do give faithful reproduction.

Listen to an orchestra and pick out the individual instruments. Each has its own character — its own identity.

Turn to a male quartet, a piano solo, a radio drama with all the varying voices and inflections. Every sound is true to the original. That is the standard of Atwater Kent reproduction.

Atwater Kent gives it to you for less money. Less money because Atwater Kent Radio is manufactured in great quantities, making economies of production possible. Yet this huge production does not affect quality in the slightest. For every set, besides being made of the finest materials, has to pass 222 tests or inspections in the course of manufacture.

Turn the FULL-VISION Dial and listen to "the radio that tells the truth."

Football Titles Still Unsettled In East And South

N. Y. U. BEATEN BY OREGON AGGIES; CORNELL TROUNCED

Nebraska U Beats Kansas Aggies for "Big Six" Crown

New York —(P)—Five of the country's seven major football championships have been decided. Only the East and South still are in the doubtful stage and the chances are that both will remain that way even after all the returns are in.

Illinois captured the Western conference title on Saturday on the same day that Southern California won the crown on the Pacific coast but the other three conference winners waited until Thanksgiving day to make their titles clear.

A driving snowstorm at Lincoln, Neb., made good football next to impossible but the Cornhuskers of the University of Nebraska took advantage of what breaks there were to score an 8 to 0 victory over the Kansas Aggies and walk away with the "Big Six" championship. Nebraska finished its conference schedule undefeated. The Aggies also finished with a perfect record—they didn't win a championship game. By turning back Missouri's Tigers, 14 to 0, Oklahoma in a tie for runner-up position with the Tigers.

Showing a surprising reversal of form, the Utah Redskins clinched the Rocky Mountain conference title by defeating the Utah Aggies 20 to 0. The Redskins had held the lead all season but gave their supporters many an anxious moment in the last two weeks when they were led by Creighton and Brigham Young.

Forty-five thousand persons, the largest crowd that ever saw a football game in Texas, watched the Texas University longhorns win the championship of the Southwestern conference by defeating their old rivals, Texas A. & M., 19 to 0. A touchdown in the closing minutes of play gave Drake a 6-0 triumph over Creighton and the title in the reorganized Missouri Valley conference.

New York university's crushing defeat by the Oregon Aggies muddled up the championship situation in the east more than ever, but in the Southern conference only Georgia Tech and Florida are left in a position to broadcast any loud titles. Tech crushed Auburn, 51 to 0, while Florida was rolling up a 60 to 6 tally on Washington and Lee. These two mighty teams only, of the 22 southern conference members, have met neither defeat nor tie. Tennessee and Louisiana State, unbeaten and united in the conference previously, while Virginia Polytechnic saw its perfect conference record go to smash before the attack of Virginia Military Institute, 15 to 0.

MAYBE GOOD PLAYERS RUN IN THE FAMILY

Miami, Fla. —(P)—Luke Mizell, halfback on the Miami high school football team, apparently is following in the footsteps of his famous brother, Warner, star backfield man of Georgia Tech's unbeaten and untied Golden Tornado.

Luke recently contributed largely to his team's victory over St. Petersburg, Fla., high school and has starred in many preparatory school games this year.

DOESN'T SEEM FAIR

Oklahoma City —(P)—The Western League had the highest percentage of games won and lost for the entire season but didn't win the pennant. The league played a split season and Oklahoma City won the first half but not the second and was defeated in the playoff series by Tulsa.

White Sox Ready To Barter For Players

Chicago —(P)—When the major league club owners gather here two weeks from Thursday for their joint meeting, the Chicago White Sox will be ready to barter for a second baseman, a catcher and an outfielder.

The status of Russell Lina, Blackburn's managerial powers is more or less a conjecture, but he is going ahead with plans for 1929. Blackburn has not signed a contract as manager, but says he has an agreement with Charles Comiskey, owner of the club, to sign. He may come to terms during the joint meeting.

White Sox officials have refused to make any statement concerning Blackburn's reappointment, having always contended that Blackburn's appointment July 4 was not temporary. Blackburn was given the job when Ray Schalk resigned after an indifferent 1927 season and a bad start in 1928.

NAUGHTY, NAUGHTY; BOYS MUST NOT SWEAR

Chicago —(P)—The Illinois Boxing commission has issued an injunction against profanity in the ring. Sig Hart, Chicago boxing promoter, is the first to suffer under the ruling. The commission has revoked his license for using profane language at a boxing show here Monday night.

EAST BAYS ROMP ON WEST, 26 TO 0 IN ANNUAL BATTLE

Daman and Shekore Each Score Two of Winners' Touchdowns

Green Bay —East Green Bay, valley conference champions of 1928, defeated West Green Bay in the annual grid classic, 26 to 0, here Thursday. Although a stiff northern wind blew across the city stadium, 8,000 fans braved the cold winds to witness the game—a typical East-West battle.

West Green Bay went into the game doped to be completely overwhelmed by the Crimson machine. Shortly after the fray started, the Purple team surprised the crowd and steadily pushed the Red Devils back to their own goal line. But the inexperienced West High eleven was unable to maintain the fast pace, and East rushed across its victory.

The Crimson team must have been preparing a pineapple for West all season. The bomb was slow exploding, but when it did East ran through the West High line for several long gains and tossed passes which had the Purple secondary confused. West found trouble penetrating the husky East High eleven.

When a Purple back broke through a hole in the Red Devil line, the huge figure of Capt. Roesser leaped up and halted the drive. West resorted to passing its way down the field, but the attack failed to put the ball across the East High goal line. East Green Bay got its first scoring opportunity late in the first quarter. Denyes of West punted from behind his own goal line and the ball was carried out by the wind on the 30-yard line. Warren Becker and Daman battered their way through the 10-yard line on three line smashes. Shekore cut back over right guard and crossed the West High line with the first touchdown. Becker added the extra point after the touchdown.

East again regained possession of the ball deep in the West High territory. Warren Becker lifted a long punt which was downed by his brother on the Purple's 1-yard line. Denyes' punt was carried out on his own 10-yard line. After two unsuccessful line smashes Daman's long pass went out of the reach of Schuette over the goal line.

In the second quarter, a 19-yard pass from Becker to Becker placed the ball on the 20-yard line. West lost 15 yards for rough play, and Red Daman battered his way over right guard for the second touchdown.

At the start of the second half, West interfered on a long pass from Becker to Becker, and the ball was given to the Red Devils on their 10-yard line. Warren Becker, the center of the line to the 5-yard line, and Daman followed up with a drive over right guard for a touchdown. Becker added the point after touchdown.

The west siders had their only scoring opportunity in the third quarter. Wolfe received a punt on his 40-yard line, and started 17 yards down the field. The only man between him and the goal line was Shekore and at this point his activities halted.

STRIKE CAN'T FLY NOW

Tex Rickard has given Young Striking orders not to fly to any more fights. Take the trains, Tex told him.

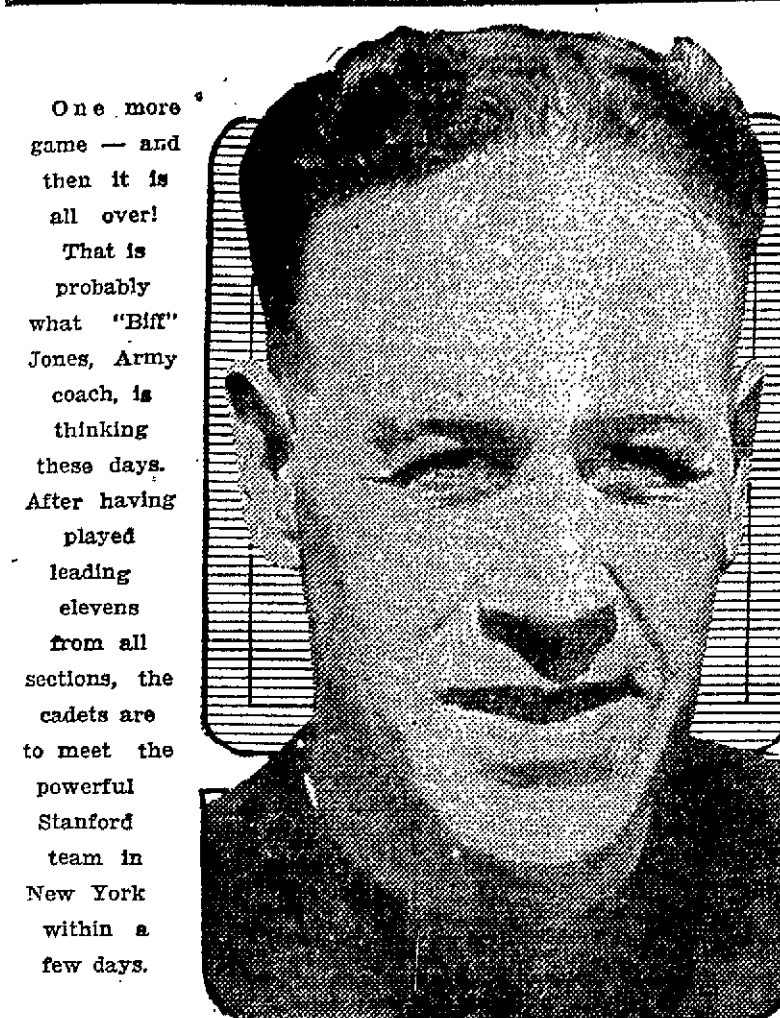

Indianapolis —(P)—Chuck Wiggins, Indianapolis, topped Tom Brannard, Detroit, (6). Herman Clark, Indianapolis, outpointed Eddie Walsh, Chicago, (8).

Blackburn is also in the market for an experienced catcher. Three receivers—Berg, Crouse and McCurdy—are on the Sox roster and if another one is obtained McCurdy probably will be traded.

In the outfield Blackburn has a group of hustling players in Mostil, Reynolds, Metcalf, Falk and Blackaby, but he is seeking more punch. Baseball gossip has it that Falk will go to Cleveland in trade for George Uhle, but Blackburn says Falk will be hard to pry loose from the Sox. The Sox manager seems satisfied with his pitching staff but would be willing to add a good southpaw, without releasing his two aces—Ted Lyons and Tommy Thomas.

In Art Shires, President E. S. Barnard of the American League believes the Sox are another Ty Cobb.

Has Had Successful Year

One more game — and then it is all over! That is probably what "Bill" Jones, Army coach, is thinking these days. After having played leading elevens from all sections, the cadets are to meet the powerful Stanford team in New York within a few days.

PACKERS LOSE TO JACKETS, 2 AND 0

Lewellen Tossed for Safety on Bad Pass from Center; Bays Strong

Philadelphia — The Green Bay Packers lost the toughest kind of a game to the Frankford Yellowjackets here Thursday by the score of 2 to 0 before a crowd of some 8,000 spectators. A pass from center which sailed over Lewellen's head early in the first quarter gave the Yellowjackets two points via the safety route.

As a matter of fact the Jackets never had the ball in their possession inside of the Packers' 35-yard line. Time after time the Big Bay Blues swept down the field in magnificent forward passing drives only to fizzle out when within the shadow of the goal posts. Twice Green Bay receivers dropped would have meant touchdowns.

The Packers made fourteen first downs to the Jackets seven and a summary of the yardage made showed that the Bays outgained the Packers something like three to one.

The super-climax of the combat came within the last thirty seconds of play. Frankford had punted and the Bays received on their 20-yard line. The timer was watching his watch as the teams lined up. The Bays used a spread formation and Lewellen passed to Kotal, who made a startling catch and started down the field. Ten, 15, 20 yards he went side stepping and straight arming all the hostiles in route.

At last he was clear of all but two men. He flung off one would be tackle but slipped as he did it and Mercer flopped him on the Jacket's 15-yard line. The horn tooted and it was all over.

Around The Sport World

HE WASN'T GOALED

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY, a team which may be nominated as the national champion when all the returns are in, has two of the greatest tackles a team ever enjoyed in Lassarman and Grant. And they are other things than football artists.

Grant is the intercollegiate heavyweight champion boxer and Lassarman is a former champion and therein lies an interesting story.

Lassarman was the 1926 champion and he was so good that he was besieged by professional managers who saw him in a great prospect for the heavyweight championship.

With Lassarman as the ace of an ordinary team, New York U. entered a team in the national championship tournament, but Lassarman broke a leg during the football season and could not defend his title.

The New York management did not want to withdraw the team, but there was no one to substitute for Lassarman.

ANCIENT SPREAD FORMATION BEATS IOWA AGGIES, 6-0

Partially Blocked Punt on Ames' 30 Yard Line Gives Break

Milwaukee —(P)—An ancient spread formation sent Coach Noel Workman's Iowa State college football team to its second consecutive defeat at the hands of Marquette university here Thursday afternoon by a score of 6-0 in the two schools' annual Turkey day clash before a crowd of 15,000.

Marquette scored early in the fourth period when Mendelson drove to the Ames 5-yard line from a wide open formation, and Deig twice plunged through the Hawkeye farmers' forward wall to plant the ball in the end zone for the only touchdown on the game. Radick's try for point failed.

Coach Murray's Hilltop eleven had marched into scoring territory when the opening of the final period brought the first and only break of the game. Bennett, Ames back, had dropped back to kick. The ball, apparently half-blocked, went high into the air, struck the ground and bounded back to the Iowans' 33-yard line. From here a pass, Crowley, put the ball on the 30-yard line where Mendelson opened up with the old Warner spread formation.

Both teams had brilliant scoring opportunities in the first half. Marquette's Golden Avalanche, launching a powerful offensive from its own 30-yard line, late in the first period. Passes by Mendelson to Padden and Crowley and two brilliant dashes around end by the Hilltop quarterback carried the ball to the Ames 20-yard line. Despite a penalty, a pass, Mendelson to Crowley and some terrific line plunging by Deig, put ball on the 10-yard line. However, the big push ended here when coach Murray's eleven lost the ball on downs after two futile passes.

With Lindblom and Trauger doing most of the ground-gaining, the Cyclones came back in impressive style in the next period, taking a kick on his 30-yard line, Trauger returned 8 yards. Lindblom, went through the line to the 41-yard stripe. A pass, Henderson to Johnson, was good for 45 yards. But here the big parade ended, as Marquette intercepted a pass inside its 5-yard line as the gun barked to end the half.

YALE COACHES STUDY TO BECOME BARRISTERS

New Haven, Conn. —(P)—The study of law is attracting the attention of several members of the Yale coaching staff. Four are registered for courses in the law school this term.

Outstanding among the four is Ed Leader, crew coach, who since coming to Yale from Washington produced the great Yale Olympic eight of 1924.

Others are Larry Noble, recently appointed head hockey coach; Reginald Root, soccer coach, and Walter Lynch, freshman lacrosse coach and former Yale-stick star.

THE FANS SAID THEIR SAY

Before Billy Southworth was chosen manager of the Cards for 1929, one of the St. Louis newspapers held a straw vote of fans to see which man under consideration was preferred. Southworth got the most votes.

ONE MAGNIFICENT GAME

Lassarman played with such brilliance in the Carnegie game that he will find a place on a number of All-America teams. It is too bad perhaps that a player cannot have his qualifications presented on one great game. Early in the season Lassarman had to favor the leg that was broken last year and he had to work up slowly to his best form. There were, on the other hand, a number of tackles which distinguished themselves in every game and who also had one big inspired afternoon. And there were other great tackles who played without the help that Al had.

Kicked Off Plebe Squad

When Eddie Burke went out for football in his plebe year at Annapolis, the Navy coaches gave him a helping hand but he showed such a lack of stuff that they didn't have time to bother with him and told him to turn in his clothes. He refused to give up the game, however, and joined his class team in the intra-mural competition. It wasn't long before the varsity coaches were told that there was quite a football player out on the lot and Burke was called to the varsity squad. He made the team and was elected captain this year. He turned out to be one of the best guards of the year and it was his individual work that was a big factor in giving the Navy team victories over Pennsylvania and Princeton and saving the record of the team from a disaster.

BROWN BEAR GROWING OLD; GROWLS AT TRIPS

Providence, R. I. —(P)—Supporters of the Brown University football team fear that old Bruno III will growl his sentiments at few games away from home hereafter.

Bruno III is the venerable ursine mascot of Brown gridiron teams. This year he missed his first Brown-Dartmouth game since his adoption. W. M. Walcott, custodian of the Brown Bear, has found that his rapidly aging charge suffers a stomach indisposition during long train rides.

Georgia Tech Has Been Consistently Good "11"

BY BILLY EVANS

DOWN in Atlanta they are calling this year's Georgia Tech football team the greatest the school has produced in the last 10 seasons.

They even are going so far as to rate the current Tornado with those famous ones of 1917-18. That, in itself, is praise aplenty for those teams of a decade or so ago were ranked with the country's best.

The 1917 aggregation, especially, hung up an enviable record. In nine games it rolled up a total of 491 points to its opponents. 17, Pennsylvania was smothered, 41 to 0; Washington and Lee fell, 63 to 0; Vanderbilt was crushed, 33 to 0 and the Carlisle Indians were slaughtered, 58 to 0, among others.

Some of the stars of that great team were Fincher, Phillips, Strupper and Guyon. Strupper still stands out as one of the best backs the south ever has turned out.

GOOD AGAIN IN 1918 In 1918 the Golden Tornado came through with another sterling eleven. This despite the fact Fincher and Guyon were the only veterans to return. But this pair together with Phil Harlan, Flowers, Barron and Huffines chalked up 478 points in seven frays to 23 for the foe. In three of the games Georgia Tech passed the 120-point mark, Furman falling, 128 to 0.

Late that campaign the Atlanta team came north to play a great University of Pittsburgh outfit at Pittsburg. The two teams were rated as the team of the collegiate world. Neither had been scored on. The game was heralded as the football classic of the year.

Well do I recall the day the battle was played—a cold, windy day with snow falling at various intervals, far from the kind of weather the boys from the south were accustomed to.

In the wintry blasts that bleak November day the Golden Tornado proved only a mild breeze, Pitt winning, 22 to 0. Tech was no match for such stars as Davies, Easterday and McLarnin. Pitt was the only team to score on the Yellow Jackets that season.

MATERIAL WAS POOR

From then on football took a slump at Georgia Tech; took a slump from which the Atlanta school didn't really climb out of until the last few years. Last season a fairly good team was developed with the present model one of the best in the history of the institution.

In Thompson, Mizell and Lumpkin it boasts three stellar backs while Fund ranks as one of the best centers in the country. These players, it is true, may not rate, with some of those Tech knew in the famous days of Heisman, it coach, but they've been good enough to help the Tornado hang up a nifty string of victories.

Georgia Tech stacks up as one of the best teams in the 1928 jamboree and it would occasion no great surprise were the Alexander-coached eleven picked as the one to meet a far west team in the annual Tournament of Roses game on the Pacific coast the first of the year.

JIMMY McLARNIN TO FIGHT IN DETROIT

Chance at World Title in Offing for Winner of Match

Detroit —(P)—A genuine slugging bee with a chance at a world title in the offing is anticipated in Friday night's 10 round bout between Jimmy McLarnin, Irish lightweight from the Pacific coast and Ray Miller, Chicago Hebrew who has the promise of a bout with Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, if he wins.

McLarnin is heavier than Miller, but both are at their ideal fighting weight. They were to weigh in at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon.

The fight will bring before the fans two distinctive styles of boxing. McLarnin has to his credit a long string of knockouts, the last over Stanislaus Loayza, the Chilean, all garnered with that snappy right hand punch. He has gained a reputation as probably the hardest hitting fighter of his weight.

Miller's style does not yield so easily to description. He is left handed in everything but boxing. In the ring he takes the stance of a right hander, but his most telling blow is a left hook. The trick has brought grief to many opponents.

EXPERTS LOOK FOR EASTERN ELEVEN WORTHY OF CROWN

May Award Title to Army if It Beats Stanford Saturday Afternoon

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
New York—(AP)—It begins to look as though the east will have to do without a football champion this year. In 1927 the experts got out of difficulties by nominating Yale and Pittsburg as joint holders of the crown. At the moment it would seem that six or seven teams should be rated about equally and to name that many to one throne would make the royal perch of 1928 a bit uncomfortable for all.

Of course, there's still a chance that Saturday's few but important battles will develop a ruler upon whom the large majority of fans and experts can agree. If the gallant Cats of West Point can turn back Stanford, most observers will be ready to toss out the Notre Dame game and award the sectional title to Army.

Then Boston college, in the event it defeats Holy Cross, must be considered. The Eagles of B. C. have escaped defeat and tie so far although their schedule was none too heavy.

Georgetown may strengthen its championship position by stopping the hitherto unbeaten University of Detroit eleven at Detroit. "Brazil and Cornell, Detroit backs, will be prepared to see that Georgetown goes back to Washington with another defeat tacked on its record.

The outstanding features of the Thanksgiving day program were New York University's complete rout by the Oregon Aggies, 25 to 13, and Pennsylvania's annihilation of Cornell, 49 to 0.

After New York university's triumph over Carnegie Tech last Saturday, critics were ready to award the title and everything else to the violent Violets but the Beavers from the Pacific coast romped through the New Yorkers' weakened line practically at will.

With Paul Scull making a glorious exit from the collegiate gridiron, Penn smashed Cornell into overwhelming defeat at Philadelphia and now are ready to dispute titular claims by any other eleven. The red and blue lost only to the Navy this season, numbering among its victims Harvard, Penn State and Columbia.

After three ties in a row, Brown finally managed to gain the edge over Colgate in their annual Thanksgiving day struggle but the margin was none too much.

Touchdowns by Baysinger and Stevens in the third and fourth periods gave Syracuse a 14 to 6 verdict over Columbia, the first major triumph the Orange scored this year. Columbia—on the other hand, wound up the season without a single victory over an outstanding foe.

SEE NO EXTENSION OF COLLEGE SPORTS

Little Four Officials Lukewarm in Attitude at Milwaukee Meeting

Extension of the minor sports program, cross country, wrestling and boxing, to an intercollegiate sport among members of the little four conference will not come to pass for a few more months at least. Such was the sum and substance of the discussion held in Milwaukee when the conference officials got together for their annual fall meeting Wednesday. Dr. H. M. Wriston, athletic director A. C. Denny and coach Rasussen represented Lawrence in the meeting.

With the subject was broached by Lawrence officials and pushed to the limit it was received with only lukewarm support from other schools and in several cases turned down flat.

Business transacted at the meeting was of routine nature, the athletic directors choosing college officials for the winter and the grid coaches bantering for the 1929 dates. It is understood the football schedules were arranged as far as conference games were concerned. Final determination of the Lawrence college grid card depends on the midwest conference meeting at Chicago next week.

POTTER IS APPOINTED CHIEF CLERK AT DEPOT

Charles Potter, former cashier at the local Chicago and Northwestern freight depot, has been appointed chief clerk to succeed the late Robert Zuehlke, according to word received by W. B. Basing, local agent, from the offices of J. S. Rice, superintendent at Green Bay. Mr. Potter has been employed by the railroad company for the past 18 years, having served at Neenah, Port Adams, and Appleton. He was formerly night ticket clerk at the passenger depot here, and has been in the freight office as assistant cashier and cashier for the past 11 years.

SECRETARY SENDS OUT APPLICATION CARDS

A number of Appleton automobile owners received cards this week from Theodore Dammann, secretary of state, for making application for their 1929 license plates. On Monday Mr. Dammann issued 75,000 cards and he expects to issue about that many daily until one has been sent to each of the 750,000 car owners in the state. By the end of next week all the cards will be out. Applications for 1929 license plates will be accepted on and after Dec. 1. Old license plates run until Dec. 31 but enforcement of the law, requiring 1929 plates, is not affected until after March 15.

Florida Estate Awaits Coming Of Millionaire

Ormond Beach, Fla.—(AP)—Armed with gardening tools, a squad of workers are putting the grounds in order around the spacious home of John D. Rockefeller, in preparation for the arrival of the 89-year-old millionaire here.

Servants of the aged millionaire already have arrived from the north and are engaged in cleaning and decorating the interior of the home. He will remain in the north until after Thanksgiving.

Last year one of the first things the aged millionaire did upon his arrival was to take a flashlight and go poking about his gardens, inspecting the work his servants had done in straightening up the grounds and admiring the tropical plants which were in full bloom. He is an ardent lover of natural beauty and spends much of his time here strolling through his well kept garden.

While the estate of the oil magnate is undergoing a thorough cleaning, workmen also are engaged in improving the grounds of the Ormond Beach golf course where Rockefeller plays his daily round of golf. His regular playing partner is General Adelbert Ames, 93, the oldest living general of the Civil War.

These two aged enthusiasts of the ancient Scottish spent sport present an interesting sight to winter visitors as they club their way around the difficult course, indulging constantly in bantering each other's game.

When Sunday comes, Mr. Rockefeller never fails to attend services at the Ormond Union church on the Dixie highway. He has his private pew and joins in the singing of church hymns, his favorite music.

After the services he always lingers in the churchyard outside, shaking hands with friends and making new acquaintances, to whom he usually presents a bright and shiny dime.

One of the outstanding features of Mr. Rockefeller's vacations here is his annual neighborhood Christmas party, when he invited his closest friends to celebrate the Yuletide season. A brilliantly lighted Christmas tree decorates the huge living room, where the aged millionaire takes great delight in playing the role of Santa Claus to his guests.

THANKSGIVING BRINGS SNOW TO WEST STATES

Denver—(AP)—Thanksgiving day had a Christmas-like setting Thursday in northern Rocky mountain states which were nearly snowbound following a 24 hours fall.

The storm spread eastward into the plain states Thursday morning. Nicaragua, 3; Norway, 1; Nova Scotia, 3; Poland, 1; South Africa, 2; Spain, 1; Switzerland, 2; Turkey, 2; Uruguay, 1, and Venezuela, 3.

and the outlook was for snowfall during the day as far in that direction as Kansas City and southward into Oklahoma and Texas, where the climatic change was heralded by melting rains and lowering temperatures.

Much of the blizzard-swept mountain region saw some relief in weather predictions of fair and warmer weather Thursday, although the heavy fall of snow continued until well after midnight.

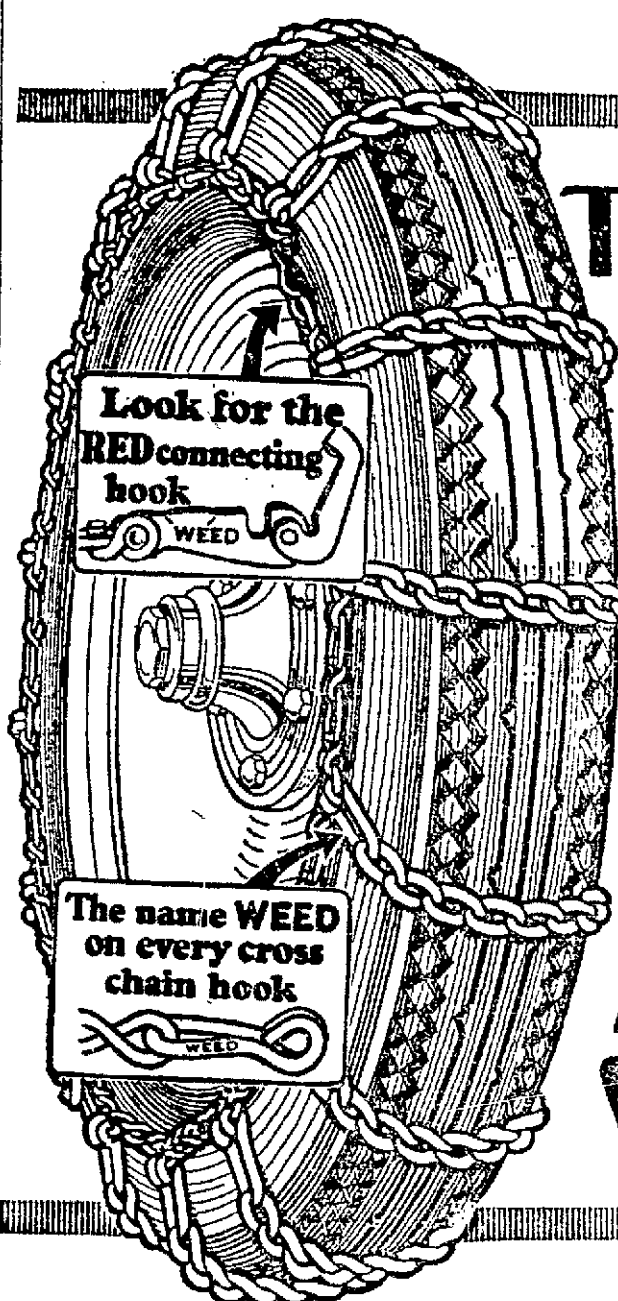

Upwards of six inches of snow fell in Denver and driving winds caused drifting that handicapped traffic. Wyoming, lashed by a blizzard that paralyzed transportation and stopped all air mail, was offered some relief in predictions of generally clear weather over the state.

A relief party which set out from Parco, Wyo., Wednesday to search for Mrs. W. H. McCoy, who was believed snowbound following an 18-inch fall, had not reported early Thursday. The search was being conducted on horseback and by men in trucks.

The accepted tire chain for over 25 years..

WEED Chains date back to the first "horseless carriages." Back to the early days when a fifty mile motor trip was an event.

For over a quarter of a century WEED Chains have made driving possible in all weather. Have made driving safer over muddy and snow-covered roads. Have stopped skidding for drivers that value life and limb and safety. And skidding is the worst cause of automobile accidents.

Never start out without WEED Chains in your car when there's likely to be snow. Carry a set of WEEDS in your car at all times. Use them when the going is slippery.

Be sure you ask for genuine

DEER HUNTERS TO BEGIN TREK TO NORTH WOOD

New London Men All Set for Opening of Season Saturday in State

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Game hunters were out early on Thursday for a few shots at the last remaining ducks and rabbit hunters took advantage of the day to bag as large a number of bunnies as their prowess warranted. Rabbits, however, sat tight in their hideaways and only a few hunters brought in game.

Dr. Ed Lyon and Dr. John Monsted, Jr., will shoot on the Lily, in company of Ben Freeman who lives at that point. Licenses have also been taken out by Fred J. LaMarche, Charles Gambrosky, Charles Kieckhefer, William Paschall, Emil Jasman and Thomas Hutchison, who will camp on the Pine river in Florence co. Victor Bernhard and Oscar Schultz of Hortonville, left several days ago for the north to prepare their camp before the opening day. Deer, it is said, are plentiful this year, the weather excellent, a light covering of snow making tracking good and yet not too heavy for comfortable travel.

NEXT "FIRST LADY" IS WOMAN OF MANY VARIED INTERESTS

Mrs. Herbert Hoover Is Neither Ultra-modern or Old-fashioned

BY RUTH FINNEY

Palo Alto, Calif. — There has, perhaps, never been in the White House a woman of such varied accomplishments and interests as the new First lady-elect, Mrs. Lou Henry Hoover.

For instance, she wanted a quiet visit with her father, a few years ago. So she set out with him in an automobile and drove him all the way from Washington to California. But that is only a small part of the picture.

This woman who, in her college days, majored in geology because she liked it and spent her leisure moments delving into ancient Latin in order to translate a book on geology that moderns did not possess, is an unusual sort of person.

You may find her engrossed in a children's party, or reading an abstract book, doing fancy work, or talking politics or world affairs. You may find her deep in household matters or equally deep in public work, the sort of thing she does for girl scouts. But whatever she is doing at the moment, she is doing it well.

That, probably, is the keynote of Mrs. Hoover. She is capable and she has done many things and she has done them easily and confidently, and looks forward to doing what the future holds for her in the same manner. Life, no matter how complicated, is no trouble to her. She knows what to do — and does it.

This, perhaps, is a family trait, for she, as well as the rest of the world, takes it for granted that whatever Herbert Hoover starts to do, he too, will accomplish.

A few days before election a friend asked Mrs. Hoover if she were not nervous.

"Oh, not at all," she answered, smiling. "I have lived with this young man for twenty-six years."

In a very real sense, Mrs. Hoover is confident and confident of this man who is to be president. Yet it is scarcely accurate to say that her husband confides in her. She simply is a part of everything he says and does. Nothing goes on in the Hoover family without her. Back in college, this companionship began with the translation of that ancient work on geology. They did it together. In all the years since they have done everything together.

And so the Hoovers are a very friendly family. They are not demonstrative, for that is not the Quaker way. But it is very easy to see that they like to be with each other. Parents, sons, daughters-in-law, grandchildren, are all good friends. And over them all, Mrs. Hoover presides, plans, directs. And plays with them. When her own grandchildren are not about, her backyard in Washington is often filled with youngsters from nearby families.

"Such a nice bunch of children here. I want to see what they are doing," she will say. And the party is on.

It is impossible to classify Mrs. Hoover as a type. She is not a "modern woman" nor an "old-fashioned" woman in the sense in which those terms are used. She is a woman who would in any time and place stand out as a distinct personality. Yet definite and forceful as her personality is, she is a woman who has learned the difficult art of subordinating herself to her famous husband. Though she is a part of whatever goes forward in the Hoover family, she is an unobtrusive part in matters over which her husband is presiding.

She by the way, calls this famous husband "Bert." Throughout the campaign, with its elegances and such words, the public failed to hit upon this nickname for its new hero. But it is the one she uses.

Mrs. Hoover has fluffy white hair which was never bobbed. She has keen blue eyes, observant, and intelligent. She dresses very simply. She has no jewelry. With the money with which she might purchase precious stones she buys beautiful pictures.

On the most momentous night of their lives, when election returns were coming in, the Hoovers kept open house for their California neighbors and the quiet simplicity of that night was indicative of the way their whole lives are ordered.

Mrs. Hoover was wearing a plain dark printed velvet dress. On her shoulder was pinned a little elephant of brilliant, a campaign gift, and that was her only jewelry. While guests were thronging in to congratulate and rejoice, and were crowding about the table where election returns were being received, Mrs. Hoover was quietly absorbed in the duties of hostess, making sure that newspapermen and secretaries working in the lower part of the house were comfortable and well fed, as well as the guests upstairs.

When newsmen who had accompanied the Hoovers on their campaign trips began showing the pictures they had taken during the summer, Hoover starting west to be notified fishing up north, speaking in various cities, Mrs. Hoover was afraid her guests would be bored with "too much Hoover," and apologized about it.

In this business of being hostess Mrs. Hoover has had wide experience. In the days soon after marriage, when her husband occupied a position of importance in China she was called on to preside over semi-official entertainments. But skilled as she is in every possible social situation, Mrs. Hoover is not interested in society as society. She has let it take very little of her time in Washington. In the White House she will doubtless, do the minimum amount of entertaining demanded by the position.

As distinctive as her simplicity of

She Prefers Simplicity

Here is a striking portrait of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, the next "first lady," which emphasizes her tastes for simplicity. She cares little for brilliant social events and wears no jewelry, but loves flowers, paintings and books.

manner, dress and life, is Mrs. Hoover's creative ability. She designs the patterns for the elaborate pieces of needlework she does. She designed the beautiful Hoover home in Palo Alto.

The home is built on a hilltop in Hopi Indian style. It is planned to give each member of the family as much sunlight and outdoor space as a house can possibly give. Each room has its own unroofed porch where there is sun and no wind, and a chance for each one to be alone, at times, in the Quaker way of solitude.

Even the servants have their own porches and garden, where they can be alone. But in the fences that divide the Hoover grounds from those of their neighbors there are doors, and that, too, tells something of the sort of folks they are.

The morning after election Mrs. Hoover sat alone in the sun on one of her upstairs porches. She was reading some of the thousands of telegrams that had reached her. A Scotch's ark and its animals were scattered at her feet. She had on a simple dark dress and sun hat. She had an absorbed vista of triumph before her to think about. And she looked up and said she had been spending her time planning how best to answer a message to a friend in an out-of-the-way place to whom a message that morning would mean a very great deal.

ROSA PONSSELLE TO BROADCAST PROGRAM

Rosa Ponselle, who will sing in Appleton on March 8, will broadcast Dec. 3 from the WEAF key station. She will sing from 9:30 to 10:20 Monday evening standard time.

On Nov. 15 the National Federation of Music club of America honored the famous soprano by designating that day as Rosa Ponselle Day in the American world of music. The honor came as recognition of her phenomenal rise and outstanding artistic achievements, and because she was American born and received all her training in this country.

To find herself, at 21, at the top of a hill which a short time before had not even been visible on the horizon, to step from obscurity to prestige and distinction; to suddenly blaze forth and like Lord Byron, greet fame in the morning; these were the brilliant experiences of Rosa Ponselle in the year 1918. Since that time she has been prima donna of the Metropolitan opera company, and this year is celebrating her tenth anniversary with that company.
